

NEWS AND NOTES ACTIVITIES

PAUL L. BECKETT, Washington State University, was on sabbatical leave, spring term, 1968.

CHARLES G. BELL, California State College, Fullerton, and CHARLES M. PRICE, Chicago State College, have received a grant from the National Science Foundation to continue their panel survey research on the legislative socialization of freshmen assemblymen.

JAMES R. BELL, Sacramento State College, will be on sabbatical leave during the 1968-69 academic year.

EDWARD M. BERSHTEIN, University of Hartford, received a research grant from the Lincoln Foundation, and spent the summer, 1968, in Chile studying the politics of land reform.

PAUL R. BRASS, University of Washington, received a Ford Foundation Faculty Fellowship to study the politics and policy-making in Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, and Punjab.

THOMAS P. BRUDERLE, Gwynedd-Mercy College, is the Democratic candidate for the Pennsylvania State Assembly from the Commonwealth's 166th Legislative District.

JOHN H. BUNZEL, San Francisco State College, was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

BARBARA CALLAWAY, California State College, Los Angeles, is spending the current academic year in Ghana on a Fulbright research fellowship.

HARRIS SAUL COHEN, Federal City College, has been appointed Research Social Scientist on a three year National Institute of Mental Health research project on "Pre-Trial Diversion of Mentally Ill Offenders" at Georgetown University, directed by Edward de Grazia.

GEORGE A. CONDON, Washington State University, is serving as Executive Director, Washington State Constitutional Revision Commission.

JOHN A. DAVIS, The City College, CUNY, will be a Fellow at the Institute for Behavioral Studies in Palo Alto, California, 1969-70.

GORDON J. DIRENZO, Indiana University, South Bend, will serve as senior Fulbright professor at the University of Rome for the 1968-69 academic year. He also was given a university grant for social psychological studies on the relationship of personality structure to roles of state legislators.

RONDAL DOWNING, University of Missouri, Columbia, is on sabbatical leave for fall, 1968.

ROBERT E. ELDER, Colgate University, is on sabbatical leave in Israel conducting research on the Ministry of Foreign Affairs during 1968-69.

LEE W. FARNSWORTH, Brigham Young University, will return to Japan in November to continue his study of political factions.

WAYNE L. FRANCIS, University of Washington, has received a National Science Foundation Grant for research in simulation and modeling of legislative processes.

JACK B. GABBERT, Washington State University, will be on sabbatical leave, fall term, 1968, conducting research in Mexico.

DOUGLAS S. GATLIN, Florida Atlantic University, has received a grant from the Eagleton Foundation for a study of the effects of the two-party system on the Florida legislature.

LASZLO GORGEY, University of South Carolina, has received a Ford Foundation Grant in the Cooperative Program in International Studies for the academic year 1968-69 at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Professor Gorgey has just returned from a summer of research in Berlin and Hungary.

WERNER F. GRUNBAUM, University of Missouri, St. Louis, has been granted a special leave during the fall semester, 1968, to continue his studies in computer content analysis.

TEDD GURR, Princeton University, has been appointed co-director of the Task Force on Historical and Comparative Perspectives on Violence of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence during 1968-69.

JOSEPH HAJDA, Office of International Activities, served as a member of the U.S. Agricultural Trade Mission which visited Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, June 17-29.

JERZY HAUPTMANN, Park College, is on leave for the academic year 1968-69 and is serving as professor of political affairs at the National War College, Washington, D.C.

PETER J. HENROIT, S.J., Seattle University, spent the summer of 1968 at the Cambridge Center for Social Studies as a visiting summer fellow, engaged in urban politics research.

CLAUDIUS O. JOHNSON, Washington State University, has been honored by the University by having a hall named for him.

ROBERT S. JORDAN, George Washington University, has been awarded a NATO Fellowship for 1968-69 in partial support of a comparative study of the diplomatic and administrative roles of the Secretaries-General of NATO. He also has been named a member of the Committee on Atlantic Studies, and of the Committee on Bibliographical and Documentation Services of the International Studies Association.

HERBERT M. KAGI, University of Washington, has received a faculty fellowship awarded by the Graduate Council on Public Administration, American Society for Public Administration, and will serve in the Bureau of the Budget.

JAMES B. KESSLER, Indiana University, is on sabbatical leave during 1968-69.

JAROLD A. KIEFFER, University of Oregon, is serving as special assistant to the Governor of Oregon as chairman of the Project 70's Task Force.

PAUL H. LEWIS, Newcomb College, Tulane University, has received a Social Science Research Council Grant for study in Brazil during the summer of 1968 and will be on leave from Newcomb for 1968-69 under a Fulbright Research Grant for study in Spain.

JOHN C. LIVINGSTON, Sacramento State College, has been elected to the Academic Senate at Sacramento State College.

THEODORE J. LOWI, University of Chicago, was a Guggenheim Fellow in Paris during the Academic year 1967-68.

MATTHIAS E. LUKENS, Port of New York Authority, received an honorary Doctor of Law Degree from the University of Cincinnati.

THOMAS MCENROE, California State College, Los Angeles, is spending the current academic year in Ghana on a Fulbright research fellowship.

MELVIN P. MABEY, Brigham Young University, has recently returned from a second trip to Prague, Czechoslovakia where he has been doing research.

GORDON P. MEANS, McMaster University, is on leave during 1968-69.

JOSEPHINE F. MILBURN, Simmons College, has been appointed Director of a new Simmons program, "Women in Political and Administrative Service."

HARRISON MUYIA, Eastern Michigan University, received an Adlai E. Stevenson Fellowship at the U.N. for 1968-69.

TERRY NARDIN, SUNY at Buffalo, received a grant from the Northwestern University Council for Intersocietal Studies from funds contributed by the Ford Foundation for "Comparative Studies of Conflict Resolution" in 1968-69.

J. DAVID PALMER, Georgia State College, served as a consultant to the Southern Regional Education Board's Resource Development Project in Atlanta during the summer, 1968.

NORMAN D. PALMER, University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed a member of the Executive Committee, Mid-Atlantic Division, International Studies Association; served as resource participant in a two-week seminar on Asian thought under the auspices of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, August-September, 1968; and has been awarded a Wilton Park Fellowship for participation in one of the Wilton Park conferences to be held at the Foreign Office Conference Centre, Wilton Park, Sussex, England.

WILLIAM O. PETERFI, University of Minnesota, Morris, has been conducting research during August-September 1968, at the Utrikspolitiska Institutet, Stockholm, Sweden, and at the Institute for Strategic Studies, London, England.

CHANNING B. RICHARDSON, Hamilton College, spent the summer in Nigeria surveying refugee and relief problems stemming from the Nigerian civil war for the American Friends Service Committee.

PETER H. ROHN, University of Washington, has received a National Science Foundation Grant to develop a computerized treaty information system.

DONALD B. ROSENTHAL, SUNY at Buffalo, received a SUNY Research Foundation grant to enable him to conduct field research in India during the summer, 1968.

THOMAS RUSCH, California State College, Los Angeles, has returned from his sabbatical leave. He spent the 1967-68 academic year engaged in research on Indian politics and spent a portion of the year in India.

AKE SANDLER, California State College, Los Angeles, has returned from his sabbatical leave during which he engaged in research on the office of the Ombudsman, and spent a portion of the year in Sweden.

IRWIN J. SCHULMAN, University of Pittsburgh, will spend the academic year 1968-69 doing research in Taiwan on a Fulbright Faculty Fellowship for Research.

WILLIAM W. SHAW, Tulane University and City of New Orleans Civil Service Commission, is serving as a member of the U.S. Advisory Committee on Merit System Standards, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and as 1968-69 President of the Louisiana Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration.

HAROLD J. SPAETH Michigan State University, has received a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health for research on the operationalization of the concepts of attitude, value, and ideology.

HENRY STECK, SUNY College, Cortland, has been awarded a Social Science Research Council Fellowship and will be on leave during 1968-69.

MARVIN SURKIN, Moravian College, is on leave during 1968-69, while teaching at Manhattan Community College.

BETTY TAYMOR, Simmons College, has been appointed Lecturer-Field Work Supervisor of the program for "Women in Political and Administrative Service."

BARBARA TETERS, Iowa State University, has returned from a year of research in Japan.

ROLF H. THEEN, Iowa State University, has returned from a year of research in Moscow, Russia.

KENNETH H. THOMPSON, University of Southern California, has been appointed USC Representative to the Inter-University Consortium for Political Research.

ROBERT G. THOMPSON, Sacramento State College, has completed his term as Chairman of the Academic Senate at Sacramento State College, and has been elected to the Academic Senate of the California State Colleges.

G. W. THUMM, Bates College, has resumed his position as professor after two years' leave of absence as visiting professor at the National War College.

JACK E. VINCENT, Florida Atlantic University, was a discussant at the 1968 Annual Conference of the American Society for Public Administration in Boston. He also has received a grant to study the growth patterns of American cities.

ARTHUR C. WOLFE, University of Michigan, has returned to the Survey Research Center to direct the 1968 Election Study, following a year on leave as a research associate at the Institut fur Angewandte Sozialwissenschaft, Bad Godesberg, Germany, concerning the socio-economic background of German voting behavior and possible electoral reform.

STAFF CHANGES

NEW APPOINTMENTS

PETER BACHRACH, professor, Temple University; formerly of Bryn Mawr College.

PAUL A. BECKETT, instructor, Purdue University.

JEROME BIDINGER, assistant professor, Trinity College.

HARRY W. BLAIR, instructor, Colgate University.

JOHN J. BOYNE, professor, Auburn University and director, Auburn graduate program in political science, Air University; formerly of Department of the Air Force.

DON R. BROYLES, assistant professor, Fresno State College.

DOYLE W. BUCKWALTER, assistant professor, Brigham Young University.

JONATHAN W. BULKLEY, assistant professor, joint appointment, Civil Engineering and Natural Resource, University of Michigan; formerly of Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

THOMAS RUSCH, California State College, Los Angeles, has returned from his sabbatical leave. He spent the 1967-68 academic year engaged in research on Indian politics and spent a portion of the year in India.

AKE SANDLER, California State College, Los Angeles, has returned from his sabbatical leave during which he engaged in research on the office of the Ombudsman, and spent a portion of the year in Sweden.

IRWIN J. SCHULMAN, University of Pittsburgh, will spend the academic year 1968-69 doing research in Taiwan on a Fulbright Faculty Fellowship for Research.

WILLIAM W. SHAW, Tulane University and City of New Orleans Civil Service Commission, is serving as a member of the U.S. Advisory Committee on Merit System Standards, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and as 1968-69 President of the Louisiana Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration.

HAROLD J. SPAETH Michigan State University, has received a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health for research on the operationalization of the concepts of attitude, value, and ideology.

HENRY STECK, SUNY College, Cortland, has been awarded a Social Science Research Council Fellowship and will be on leave during 1968-69.

MARVIN SURKIN, Moravian College, is on leave during 1968-69, while teaching at Manhattan Community College.

BETTY TAYMOR, Simmons College, has been appointed Lecturer-Field Work Supervisor of the program for "Women in Political and Administrative Service."

BARBARA TETERS, Iowa State University, has returned from a year of research in Japan.

ROLF H. THEEN, Iowa State University, has returned from a year of research in Moscow, Russia.

KENNETH H. THOMPSON, University of Southern California, has been appointed USC Representative to the Inter-University Consortium for Political Research.

ROBERT G. THOMPSON, Sacramento State College, has completed his term as Chairman of the Academic Senate at Sacramento State College, and has been elected to the Academic Senate of the California State Colleges.

G. W. THUMM, Bates College, has resumed his position as professor after two years' leave of absence as visiting professor at the National War College.

JACK E. VINCENT, Florida Atlantic University, was a discussant at the 1968 Annual Conference of the American Society for Public Administration in Boston. He also has received a grant to study the growth patterns of American cities.

ARTHUR C. WOLFE, University of Michigan, has returned to the Survey Research Center to direct the 1968 Election Study, following a year on leave as a research associate at the Institut fur Angewandte Sozialwissenschaft, Bad Godesberg, Germany, concerning the socio-economic background of German voting behavior and possible electoral reform.

STAFF CHANGES

NEW APPOINTMENTS

PETER BACHRACH, professor, Temple University; formerly of Bryn Mawr College.

PAUL A. BECKETT, instructor, Purdue University.

JEROME BIDINGER, assistant professor, Trinity College.

HARRY W. BLAIR, instructor, Colgate University.

JOHN J. BOYNE, professor, Auburn University and director, Auburn graduate program

in political science, Air University; formerly of Department of the Air Force.

DON R. BROYLES, assistant professor, Fresno State College.

DOYLE W. BUCKWALTER, assistant professor, Brigham Young University.

JONATHAN W. BULKLEY, assistant professor, joint appointment, Civil Engineering and Natural Resource, University of Michigan; formerly of Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

WILLIAM BUSCEMI, assistant professor, Wittenberg University; formerly of Duquesne University.

THOMAS CARLSON, assistant professor, Sacramento State College.

LINDA ANN CARSTARPHEN, assistant professor, University of Maine.

ANTHONY D. CASTBERG, assistant professor, California State College, Los Angeles; formerly of the Program in Law and the Social Science, Northwestern University.

WILLIAM M. CHANDLER, lecturer, McMaster University.

CHANG-HYUN CHO, associate professor, Pembroke State College.

SOON SUNG CHO, associate professor, University of Missouri, Columbia.

PHYLLIS LOUELLYN COHAN, assistant professor, Sacramento State College.

HARRIS SAUL COHEN, assistant professor, Federal City College; formerly of Brooklyn College, CUNY.

THOMAS I. DICKSON, associate professor, Auburn University; formerly of U.S. State Department.

PAUL DIESING, professor, SUNY at Buffalo.

EDWARD C. DREYER, assistant professor, University of Missouri, St. Louis; formerly of San Diego State College.

CHARLES W. DUNN, administrative assistant to Senator Charles E. Goodell; formerly deputy director, House Republican planning and research staff.

THOMAS R. DYE, professor, Florida State University; formerly of University of Georgia.

EDGAR A. EARNHART, instructor, Moravian College.

KENNETH P. ERICKSON, instructor, SUNY at Stony Brook.

KUANG-HUAN FAN, associate professor, SUNY College, Cortland; formerly of Idaho University.

EILEEN FAIRBANKS, instructor, Trinity College.

JANET FEAGANS, instructor, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh.

HARVEY F. FIRESIDE, assistant professor, Ithaca College; formerly of New York Institute of Technology.

HARVEY FLAUMENHAFT, tutor, St. John's College, Annapolis.

RICHARD FLICKINGER, assistant professor, Wittenberg University; formerly of Wells College.

BETTE D. FOX, professor, Madison College; formerly of the University of Akron.

WILLIAM L. FURLONG, assistant professor, Utah State University.

JOHN A. GARDINER, associate professor, SUNY at Stony Brook; formerly of University of Wisconsin.

ALEXANDER L. GEORGE, professor, Stanford University.

HENRY R. GLICK, assistant professor, Florida State University; formerly of the University of Georgia.

ELISHA GREIFER, associate professor, Northern Michigan University; formerly of Vassar College and U.S.I.A., Argentina and Ecuador.

EDWARD S. GREENBERG, assistant professor, Stanford University.

ROBERT GREY, instructor, Grinnell College.

RICHARD L. HAINES, assistant professor, Purdue University.

MORRIS DEAN HALLQUIST, instructor, University of Wisconsin, West Bend Campus.

MAHMUD A. HAMID, assistant professor, Coppin State College.

DONALD E. HAYHURST, associate professor, Auburn University; formerly of Slippery Rock State College.

LYMAN HEINE, assistant professor, Fresno State College.

JOHN HELMKE, instructor, University of Maine.

JAMES F. HENDERSON, JR., instructor, University of Missouri, Columbia.

LARRY HILL, assistant professor, University of Oklahoma; formerly of Tulane University (Fulbright scholarship, 1967-68).

STEPHEN HINTZ, instructor, University of Missouri, St. Louis; formerly of Yale University.

RICHARD A. HOGARTY, assistant professor, University of Massachusetts, Boston; formerly of Rider College.

FREDERIC D. HOMER, instructor, Purdue University.

MICHAEL J. HOOPER, instructor, Temple University.

PAUL R. HOOPES, assistant professor, Brigham Young University.

BENJAMIN T. HOURANI, assistant professor, Eastern Michigan University; formerly of Queens College.

CURTIS E. HUFF, lecturer, Williams College.

JOSEPH L. INGLES, assistant professor, University of Maryland.

ELIZABETH M. JAMES, assistant professor, Trinity College.

JAMES D. JOHNSON, assistant professor, Eastern Michigan University; formerly of the University of Oklahoma.

DAN E. JONES, assistant professor, Utah State University.

HARRY KANTOR, professor, Marquette University; formerly of the University of Florida.

SAMUEL KIRKPATRICK, assistant professor, University of Oklahoma; formerly of Pennsylvania State University.

WILLIAM KITCHIN, instructor, Auburn University.

DAVID KOENIG, assistant professor, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

WARREN LEE KOSTROSKI, instructor, Wisconsin State University, LaCrosse.

MARJORIE J. LANSING, assistant professor, Eastern Michigan University.

RICHARD NED LEBOW, assistant professor, City College, CUNY.

HELENAN LEWIS, assistant professor, Western Michigan University.

JOHN W. LEWIS, professor, Stanford University.

KAREN E. LINDENBERG, assistant professor, Eastern Michigan University.

ELEANOR LINENTHAL, lecturer, Fresno State College; formerly of Santa Clara University.

RICHARD LOSS, instructor, Ohio Wesleyan University.

NORMAN LUTTBEG, associate professor, Political Research Institute, Florida State University; formerly of Temple University.

CORRINE LYMAN, instructor, Ohio Wesleyan University.

PATRICIA McCLURE, instructor, Southampton College.

DAVID W. McCORMICK, associate professor, Austin Peay State University; formerly of the University of Texas, Arlington.

EUGENE B. MCGREGOR, JR., lecturer, University of Maryland.

ROMAN R. MARCH, assistant professor, McMaster University; formerly of Carleton University.

MARTA SAN MARTIN, instructor, Southampton College.

BENJAMIN L. MARTINEZ, assistant professor, Brigham Young University.

LOIS DE MENIL, instructor, University of Massachusetts, Boston.

WILLIAM FRANK MULLEN, assistant professor, Washington State University.

WAYNE C. MULLER, assistant professor, Sacramento State College.

THOMAS R. MYERS, instructor, Temple University.

GARRISON NELSON, instructor, University of Vermont.

DAN NIMMO, associate professor, University of Missouri, Columbia; formerly of University of Houston.

GRADY H. NUNN, associate professor, Auburn University; formerly of University of Pittsburgh.

J. DAVID PALMER, associate professor, Georgia State College; formerly of University of South Carolina.

WALFRED H. PETERSON, associate professor, Washington State University.

DONALD EDWARD PIENKOS, instructor, University of Wisconsin, Sheboygan.

BHAGWATI P. K. PODDAR, associate examiner, Educational Testing Service; formerly of Illinois State University.

MICHAEL C. QUINN, instructor, Purdue University.

BARNABAS A. RACZ, assistant professor, Eastern Michigan University; formerly of the Detroit Institute of Technology.

KUL B. RAI, assistant professor, Denison University.

PETER RANIS, assistant professor, York College, CUNY; formerly of SUNY at Stony Brook.

DENNIS RAY, assistant professor, California State College, Los Angeles; formerly of Morningside College.

REID READING, assistant professor, University of Pittsburgh.

WILLIAM MICHAEL REID, assistant professor, University of Maine.

JOHN W. REUSS, instructor, Purdue University.

GEORGE ROBBINS, instructor, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh.

STEVEN ROSEN, assistant professor, University of Pittsburgh.

KENNETH W. ROSS, assistant professor, Adrian College.

DAVID ROTH, assistant professor, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh.

KATHERINE SEBO, instructor, Guilford College; formerly of Wake Forest University.

FRANK P. SHERWOOD, director, Federal Executive Institute; formerly of University of Southern California.

THADDEUS EUGENE SHOEMAKER, assistant professor, Sacramento State College.

JERRY M. SILVERMAN, assistant professor, McMaster University; formerly of Agency for International Development.

RICHARD L. SKLAR, professor, SUNY at Stony Brook.

GARY V. SMITH, instructor, Ricker College.

KARL N. SNOW, legislative analyst, Utah State Legislature; remains part-time at Brigham Young University.

JAMES A. STEGENGA, associate professor, Purdue University.

WILLIAM M. STELLENWERF, JR., instructor, St. Joseph's College.

MARK STERN, instructor, University of Missouri, St. Louis; formerly of University of Rochester.

CLARENCE N. STONE, associate professor, University of Maryland; formerly of Emory University.

MICHAEL C. STRATFORD, assistant professor, Central Michigan University.

FRANK TACHAU, associate professor, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

STANLEY C. TAYLOR, associate professor and coordinator of international relations program, Brigham Young University.

MARK TESSLER, assistant professor, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

WHITNEY THOMPSON, assistant professor, Temple University.

HUNG-MAO TIEN, assistant professor, University of Wisconsin Center System, Waukesha.

MAYNARD J. TOLL, instructor, University of Massachusetts, Boston.

ANDREW C. TUTTLE, assistant professor, Nevada Southern University; formerly of Loyola University, Los Angeles.

V. STANLEY VARDYS, professor, University of Oklahoma; formerly of University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

ROBERT S. WALTERS, assistant professor, University of Pittsburgh.

CONRAD J. WEILER, instructor, Temple University; formerly of Northern Illinois University.

MICHAEL A. WEINSTEIN, assistant professor, Purdue University.

ALAN P. WERTHEIMER, assistant professor, University of Vermont.

NELSON WIKSTROM, assistant professor, University of Maine.

IRVIN L. WHITE, assistant professor, Purdue University.

NORMAN DALE WRIGHT, assistant professor, Brigham Young University.

RICHARD F. WRIGHT, instructor, Nevada Southern University.

JAMES V. YOUNG, assistant professor, Central Missouri State College; formerly of St. Olaf College.

CHARLES A. ZUZAK, assistant professor, Loyola University, Chicago.

VISITING AND TEMPORARY APPOINTMENTS

ALAN ARIAN, Tel Aviv University; associate professor, University of Minnesota, fall, 1968.

THOMAS E. BARTH, assistant professor, Iowa State University.

OLIVER BENSON, University of Oklahoma; professor, Northwestern University, spring, 1968.

L. VAUGHN BLANKENSHIP, SUNY at Buffalo; associate professor, University of California, Berkeley, summer, 1968.

J. M. BOCHENSKI, University of Fribourg; professor, University of Pittsburgh, fall, 1968.

EMILY W. CARD, lecturer, University of California, Riverside.

WILLARD CARPENTER, San Francisco State College; assistant professor, California State College, Los Angeles, summer, 1968.

WINFRIED R. DALLMAYR, Purdue University; professor, University of Hamburg, Germany.

WILLIAM F. DORRILL, Research Analysis Corporation; associate professor, University of Pittsburgh, 1968-69.

JOEL C. EDELSTEIN, assistant professor, California State College, Los Angeles, 1968-69.

ROBERT S. GILMOUR, Columbia University; assistant professor, Florida Atlantic University, 1968-69.

WILLIAM GOODMAN, Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville; professor, University of Missouri, St. Louis.

DOROTHY GUYOT, San Fernando Valley State College; assistant professor, Columbia College.

JAMES F. GUYOT, UCLA; research associate Southern Asian Institute, and senior lecturer, Columbia University.

LASHLEY G. HARVEY, Boston University; professor, College of the Holy Cross.

EDWARD J. HORTON, lecturer, Sacramento State College.

SAMIR ISHAK, assistant professor, Grand Valley State College.

ROBERT H. JOHNSON, visiting Harvey Picker professor, Colgate University.

ROBERT J. KOBLITZ, Bard College; fulbright visiting lecturer, Nanzan University, Nagoya, Japan.

WERNER LEVI, University of Hawaii; professor, University of Munich, spring, 1969.

JOHN P. LOVELL, Indiana University; associate professor, Vassar College, 1968-69.

CHARLES MCCOY, Temple University; professor, California State College, Los Angeles, summer, 1968.

TERRY NARDIN, SUNY at Buffalo; assistant professor, University of Hawaii, summer, 1968.

CHARLES P. O'DONNELL, U.S. Department of State; professor, Loyola University, Chicago.

LIAM P. O'SULLIVAN, Southampton University, England; lecturer, SUNY at Buffalo, summer, 1968.

NANCY PERCY, assistant professor, California State College, Los Angeles, summer, 1968.

THOMAS J. PRICE, instructor, Florida Atlantic University, 1968-69.

MILTON L. RAKOVE, University of Illinois; associate professor, California State College, Los Angeles, summer, 1968.

JACK D. SALMON, Gonzaga University; professor, Sophia University, Tokyo, summer, 1968.

HENRY G. SCHWARZ, University of Washington; associate professor, University of Kansas, 1968-69.

MULFORD Q. SIBLEY, University of Minnesota; professor, SUNY at Buffalo, summer, 1968.

ROBERT J. SICKELS, Purdue University; associate professor, University of New Mexico.

HERBERT J. STORING, visiting Charles Evans Hughes professor, Colgate University.

SURINDAR SINGH SURI, associate professor, University of Missouri, Columbia.

JOAN K. SWARTZ, instructor, Adrain College.

V. STANLEY VARDYS, director, Munich Center Program, University of Oklahoma.

DAVID J. VOGLER, instructor, Florida Atlantic University, 1968-69.

LARRY L. WADE, Purdue University; professor, University of California, Davis.

ADMINISTRATIVE APPOINTMENTS

DOUGLAS E. ASHFORD: director, Center for International Studies, Cornell University.

HARRY A. BAILEY, JR.: chairman, Temple University.

JAMES M. BANOVETZ: director, Urban Studies Program, Loyola University, Chicago.

CARL BECK: director, University Center for International Studies, University of Pittsburgh.

JOHN T. BERNHARD: president, Western Illinois University; formerly dean, College of Social Sciences, Brigham Young University.

PETER K. BREIT: chairman, University of Hartford.

J. H. BINDLEY: professor and chairman, Wittenberg University; formerly, University of Missouri, St. Louis.

GUTHRIE S. BIRKHEAD: director, Metropolitan Studies Program, Maxwell Graduate School, Syracuse University.

RALPH L. BISCO: assistant professor and executive director, Council of Social Science Data Archives, University of Pittsburgh.

L. VAUGHN BLANKENSHIP: vice chairman, SUNY at Buffalo.

DONALD E. BOLES: research appointment, Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs, Iowa State University; on leave from Department of History, Government, and Philosophy.

FRED G. BURKE: professor and dean of International Studies and World Affairs, SUNY at Buffalo; formerly of Eastern African Studies, Syracuse University.

WILLIAM C. BURRIS: dean, Guilford College.

RICHARD BUTWELL: director, Business Council for International Understanding Program, American University; formerly director, Patterson School of Diplomacy and International Commerce, University of Kentucky.

ALAN K. CAMPBELL: dean, Maxwell Graduate School, Syracuse University.

WILLIAM A. CARROLL: professor and chairman, Guilford College; formerly of Frostburg State College.

JOHN M. DEGROVE: dean, College of Social Science, Florida Atlantic University; formerly chairman, Department of Political Science.

PAUL F. DELESPINASSE: chairman, Adrian College.

THEODORE DENNO: chairman, SUNY College, Cortland.

JAMES E. DOUGHERTY: executive vice-president, St. Joseph's College.

PHIL A. DOYLE: director, Center for Research in Urban Government, Loyola University, Chicago.

EUGENE P. DVORIN: director of Urban Studies, California State College, Los Angeles.

JEDON A. EMENHISER: head, Utah State University.

DARRYL D. ENOS: director, Community Study and Service Center, Sacramento State College.

EDWIN H. FEDDER: director, Center for International Studies, University of Missouri, St. Louis.

LEONARD J. FEIN: associate director and director of research, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University Joint Center for Urban Studies.

CHARLES N. FORTENBERRY: professor and head, Auburn University; formerly of University of Mississippi.

CORNELIUS W. GILLAM: dean, Central Washington State College; formerly of University of Pennsylvania.

EDWARD M. GOLDBERG: assistant dean for Graduate Studies, School of Letters and Science, California State College, Los Angeles.

MYRON Q. HALE: professor and chairman, Purdue University; formerly of Ohio State University.

M. JUDD HARMON, dean, College of Social Science, Utah State University.

CLAUDE E. HAWLEY: dean, Graduate Studies, John Jay College of Criminal Justice.

MARTIN B. HICKMAN: acting dean, College of Social Sciences, Brigham Young University.

RAY C. HILLAM: chairman, Brigham Young University.

STANLEY D. HOPPER: assistant to the department chairman, California State College, Los Angeles.

ROBERT J. HUCKSHORN: chairman, Florida Atlantic University.

HAROLD K. JACOBSON: director, International Intern Program, School of Public and International Affairs, The George Washington University.

ROBERT S. JORDAN: director, Foreign Affairs Organization Program, University of Michigan.

RICHARD A. KNOLLER: director, Institutional Research, University of Vermont; formerly a consultant to the Select Committee on the Future of Private and Independent Higher Education, New York.

SEUNG KYUN KO: chairman, Maryville College.

ARTHUR LARSON: administrative assistant and director, Off-campus Studies, Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland.

CALVIN B. T. LEE: professor and dean, College of Liberal Arts, Boston University.

HOWARD H. LENTNER: associate professor and chairman, McMaster University; formerly of Case Western University.

DAVID LEUTHOLD: associate professor and director, Public Opinion Survey Unit, University of Missouri, Columbia.

WILLIAM F. LEVANTROSSER: acting chairman, Hofstra University.

E. LESTER LEVINE: associate professor and director, Political Research Institute, Florida State University; formerly of the President's Council on Youth Opportunity.

EARLEAN McCARRICK: director, Undergraduate Studies, Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland.

DAVID MARS: director, School of Public Administration, University of Southern California.

O. G. A. MASTROIANNI: instructor and assistant to the dean, Augusta College.

MORRIS S. OGUL: director, Graduate Studies, University of Pittsburgh.

DON C. PIPER: head, Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland.

DONALD H. RIDDLE: president, The John Jay College of Criminal Justice.

JACK D. SALMON: director, University Honors Program, Gonzaga University.

ELLIS SANDOZ: head, Department of Political Science, East Texas State University; formerly of International Studies, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

HOWARD A. SCARROW: acting chairman, SUNY at Stony Brook.

OTIS H. SHAO: dean, Graduate School, University of the Pacific.

GEORGE P. SMITH: acting director, Student Activities, California State College.

THOR SWANSON: chairman, Washington State University.

GEORGE L. WILLIS: chairman, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh.

JAMES H. WOLFE: director, Graduate Studies, Department of Government and Politics, University of Maryland.

PROMOTIONS (with new rank)

HARRY A. BAILEY, JR., Temple University: associate professor.

PHILIP F. BEACH, Fresno State College: associate professor.

DONALD E. BOLES, Iowa State University: professor.

GEOFFREY BULLARD, SUNY College, Cortland: assistant professor.

VINCENT CHEN, St. John's University: professor.

RICHARD P. CLAUDE, University of Maryland: associate professor.

GEORGE A. CONDON, Washington State University: associate professor.

M. MARGARET CONWAY, University of Maryland: associate professor.

PATRICIA E. CUNNEA, Washington State University: associate professor.

WINFRIED R. DALLMAYR, Purdue University: professor.

JAMES EISENSTEIN, University of Michigan: assistant professor.

FELIX GAGLIANO, Purdue University: assistant professor.

CHARLES D. GOFF, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh: professor.

DON F. HADWIGER, Iowa State University: professor.

HARLAN D. HAHN, University of California, Riverside: associate professor.

RICHARD SHELLY HARTIGAN, Loyola University, Chicago: associate professor.

CALVIN W. HIBNER, Utah State University: assistant professor.

RICHARD D. HUGHES, Sacramento State College: associate professor.

WALTER D. JACOBS, University of Maryland: professor.

HAROLD M. KLEIN, Bureau of Government Research, Rutgers University: extension specialist.

WILLIAM A. KOLSTAD, Fresno State College: associate professor.

ENVER M. KOURY, University of Maryland: associate professor.

ALLAN LARSON, Loyola University, Chicago: associate professor.

JOEL LARUS, New York University: professor.

RICHARD L. MCANAW, Western Michigan University: associate professor.

GERALD R. MCDANIEL, Sacramento State College: associate professor.

VASYL MARKUS, Loyola University, Chicago: associate professor.

DAVID MARS, University of Southern California: professor.

TIMOTHY D. MEAD, Moravian College: assistant professor.

NEAL A. MILNER, Grinnell College: assistant professor.

MARCELINO MIYARES, St. Procopius College: associate professor.

HEYWARD MOORE, JR., Fresno State College: associate professor.

PATRICK M. MORGAN, Washington State University: assistant professor.

JOHN R. NESBITT, Gonzaga University: assistant professor.

EUGENE OLSEN, Purdue University: assistant professor.

WILLIAM O. PETERFI, University of Minnesota, Morris: associate professor.

WILLIAM A. PICKERING, Auburn University: assistant professor.

LEONAS SABALUNAS, Eastern Michigan University: associate professor.

DONALD SECREST, University of Oklahoma: assistant professor.

JOHN SLOAN, Purdue University: assistant professor.

JOSEPH F. SMALL, Loyola University, Chicago: professor.

WILLARD SMITH, Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh: associate professor.

STANISLAW J. STARON, University of Vermont: associate professor.

BARBARA TETERS, Iowa State University: professor.

ROLF H. THEEN, Iowa State University: associate professor.

COREY B. VENNING, Loyola University, Chicago: assistant professor.

JACK E. VINCENT, Florida Atlantic University: associate professor.

THOMAS C. WIEGELE, St. Joseph's College: assistant professor.

CHARLES W. WIGGINS, Iowa State University: associate professor.

OLIVER P WILLIAMS, University of Pennsylvania: professor.

JAMES H. WOLFE, University of Maryland: associate professor.

JOSEPH J. ZASLOFF, University of Pittsburgh: professor.

RETIREMENTS AND RESIGNATIONS

ARTHUR D. AINSWORTH has resigned as chairman, Maryville College, to join the faculty of the American College of Switzerland.

MORLEY AYEARST has retired from New York University with the rank of Professor Emeritus of Government, having served there since 1930.

HORACE V. HARRISON has resigned his position as director of Graduate Studies, and will continue as professor, University of Maryland.

GUY B. HATHORN has resigned his position as director, Undergraduate studies, and will continue as professor, University of Maryland.

WALTER D. JACOBS has resigned as director of Off-campus and Overseas Studies, and will continue as professor, University of Maryland.

ELMER PLISCHKE has resigned as head of the department after more than fourteen years, and will continue as professor, University of Maryland.

PEARL ROBERTSON has retired from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee after 20 years of service.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN S. GORDON, Assistant Professor of Political Science in Clemson University, died on June 5, 1968, after a brief illness. He was 30 years of age.

Professor Gordon received his undergraduate degree with honors from Dickinson College, and held the M. A. degree from Duke University, and had pursued further graduate study at that institution. He had taught at Clemson for five years with special responsibility for the fields of Comparative Governments and Political Thought.

—Robert S. Lambert
Clemson University

Professor CARL BRENT SWISHER died in Baltimore, Maryland on June 14, 1968 after a brief illness. He was 71 years old. He was buried near Weston, West Virginia in the family plot where his parents lie. Weston is in the hill country where Carl grew up, and to which in recent years he increasingly returned, both in body and spirit.

As a scholar, Carl always thought of himself as a late starter in life. Strange as it may seem to those of us who stand in awe of his many and varied accomplishments in our common discipline, he was driven throughout much of his career by the feeling that he must catch up. For reasons of health and economic circumstances, Carl was delayed in completing his formal academic training and was thus older than most of the students with whom he graduated.

That he closed this imaginary gap, no one—including in the end Carl himself—could reasonably doubt. His studies of Justices Field and Taney set a standard by which judicial biography will long be measured. His work on constitutional history has influenced a whole generation of students in the field of public law. His forthcoming volume on the Taney period in the Oliver Wendell Holmes series on the Supreme Court will unquestionably be the definitive study of its kind. He was elected president of both the Southern and the American Political Science Associations, and this recognition by his colleagues gave him great pride and almost boyish pleasure.

The essence of Carl's strategy as a scholar has been well described by his long-time friend and colleague, Thomas I. Cook: "It was Carl's very real feeling that microcosm was macrocosm—by pursuing a worthwhile figure through all his life, days, and thoughts, one would encounter all humanity and all human issues. He was equally convinced that a desire for overt universalism could only result in diletantism, frustration, and confusion."

As a person Carl was quite shy, but, as is often true in such cases, he gave and drew more warmth from human associations than did most of his more gregarious colleagues. Not much for small talk, he was extraordinarily candid and communicative in conversation. Inevitably, such candor drew others out, and a conversation with Carl could often become an adventure in self-discovery.

The part of Carl's achievements least well-known outside of Johns Hopkins was his great skill as a teacher—in both lectures and seminar meetings. He had great expectations regarding his students' performance, and they usually responded by working harder than they ever had before. His colleagues sometimes peevishly complained that graduate students at Hopkins majored in Carl's course, no matter what their field of special concentration.

But students responded to his teaching with admiration and affection. When we set out upon Carl's retirement to raise money to have his portrait painted, we were swamped with contributions. That portrait is now finished and hangs in the political science seminar room at Johns Hopkins University, where Carl taught for thirty years.

—Francis E. Rourke
Johns Hopkins University

EDWARD H. LITCHFIELD, political scientist, government official, university president and business leader died in a crash of his plane in Lake Michigan on the evening of March 8, 1968. His wife, mother, and his two youngest boys, together with the pilot, perished with him.

Litchfield, who received his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan, served in Occupied Germany as Chief of General Clay's Civil Affairs Division. Later he was Dean of the School of Business and Public Administration