

Scholars Press announces the first title in its new "Studies in the Humanities" series . . .

SUICIDE

John Donne; transcribed and edited for modern readers by William A. Clebsch

John Donne's 1608 treatise on moral theology entitled Biathanatos may well be the earliest defense (though not unqualified) of suicide on the grounds of Christian ethics. "Given the current concern with the vexing ethical and religious question of when it is legitimate to terminate life voluntarily, Donne's work is an important document to set before students of this issue for discussion. . . . Through his judicious and readable modernization, Professor Clebsch has rendered a genuine service."
