

THE PEACE CORPS IN CAMEROON

Julius Amin

"CAPTURING THE CAMEROONIAN persona of directness and honesty, the guileless voice of Dr. Julius Amin proffers a history of the Peace Corps from the viewpoint of a foreign citizen served by the organization. It is a viewpoint long-awaited, filled with new insight into the Kennedy administration's motivations in creating the Peace Corps, the volunteers' successes and trials, and an emerging nation's poignant struggle as it overcomes the ravages of colonial oppression."

—Mary-Ann Tirone Smith, author of Lament for a Silver-Eyed Woman and other novels, and Peace Corps volunteer in Cameroon, 1965-1967

African Folktales in the New World

William Bascom

Foreword by Alan Dundes
These essays, devoted to traditional narratives found in Africa and in the New World, represent the last major research project of William Bascom (1912-1981), eminent authority on African art and folklore—a demonstration of the African roots of African American folktales. Folkloristics

The Sons of Sheba's Race

*African-Americans and the Italo-Ethiopian War,
1935–1941*

William R. Scott

"This is an excellent work . . ."
—Robert L. Harris, Jr.

Scott illustrates the response to the Italo-Ethiopian War of people of color, who linked the Ethiopian struggle to their own battles against racism and imperialism. Aroused African-Americans prayed, preached, and protested for Ethiopian rights to help save the world's last outpost of authentic black rule from white control. Blacks in the Diaspora Available December illustrated, cloth $42.50

Economic Growth in South Africa

Selected Policy Issues

Edited by IRAJ ABEDIAN and BARRY STANDISH, both at University of Cape Town

This work gives a brief historical perspective, examines South Africa's macroeconomic policy and the country's physical and human resources. It shows what the authors believe to be the importance of the informal economy and income redistribution and the appropriate role for government.

In My Father's House Africa in the Philosophy of Culture

KWAME ANTHONY APPIAH, Harvard University

"An exceptional work, whose contextual sweep and lucidity provide a refreshing intellectual tone away from yahoo populism. In many profound ways, Kwame Appiah's In My Father's House ushers in a new level of discourse on race and culture, placing it within a universal narrative—and where else should it belong?... Without question, a first of its kind."

—Wole Soyinka, from Race and the Rout of Reason

Going Green

People, Politics and the Environment in South Africa

Edited by JACKLYN COCK, University of the Witwatersrand, and EDDIE KOCH, The Weekly Mail Newspaper, Johannesburg

This book examines South Africa's environmental problems and shows how communities are rallying to the defense of the environment. Topics covered include land degradation, water pollution, urban ghettos, and the industrial environment. In evaluating South Africa as a microcosm of First and Third World environmental problems, this book shows how the apartheid system has contributed to environmental damage, and offers possible solutions.

In a Time of Trouble Law and Liberty in South Africa's State of Emergency

STEPHEN ELLMANN, Columbia University Law School

This work examines the intersection between law and emergency power in South Africa. Ellmann begins with an outline of the legal framework that exists in South Africa, pointing out the capacity it has to mitigate the excesses of the legislators' designs. He continues by demonstrating through the judges decisions that, with few exceptions, they repeatedly vindicated the emergency powers.

Re-entry Grants for African Scholars
Pursuing Education Research

The Rockefeller
Foundation

This grants program is designed to assist in the professional re-establishment of talented African scholars who are returning from doctoral studies abroad and have a research interest in issues related to the revitalization and development of education in sub-Saharan Africa. All proposed projects must include an explicit and substantial focus on female school participation as part of the set of educational issues to be examined.

Applicants may submit research proposals prior to or within one year of returning to their Africa-based institutions. Grants are made to the scholar, but the proposal must be endorsed by the African institution where the applicant will be a full-time staff member. Also required are: two letters of recommendation from academic supervisors at the institution where the candidate carried out doctoral study; postgraduate transcripts; and a resume.

There are no deadlines for submission of proposals. For a full description of the program, write to:
