CH'É CHIEN (Ten Thousand Poem Garages)

Chairman Mao's good leadership, so good,
College graduates come here to 'pick up our tune'
Yellow mud on our legs, but as man to man,
I sing a tune to greet our "next of kin."

"Naive, trivial and insignificant this in itself may be. But it is not so insignificant when realized as a sample product of a feverishly earnest nation-wide movement to turn up the deepest roots of folk tradition under the communist sun and to draw out and convert the last reserve of individual feeling into a collectivized consciousness."

S. H. Chen describes China's multi-million poem a year movement in the third issue of THE CHINA QUARTERLY, the only Western journal specialising in Chinese affairs. THE CHINA QUARTERLY widens its scope in this issue by including a cultural commentary and book reviews as well as penetrating political and economic analyses.
