The Presocratic Philosophers

Second Edition

G. S. KIRK, the late J. E. RAVEN
and MALCOLM SCHOFIELD

The first edition of this book is established as the standard work in English on the Presocratics. For this second edition many of the chapters have been completely rewritten (by Malcolm Schofield, who has shared with Geoffrey Kirk in the revision), and elsewhere it has been carefully revised to take account of developments in scholarship.

Greek Declamation

D. A. RUSSELL

This book fills a gap in our knowledge: Latin declamation has been well studied, but its Greek counterpart – also to a large extent its model – has been hitherto less well-known. The author sets declamation in its historical context, describes the conventional themes, and discusses the declaimers' public performances.

A Study of 'Daphnis & Chloe'

R. L. HUNTER

This book provides the first serious modern literary treatment of perhaps the best known of all surviving works of ancient Greek fiction. Dr Hunter demonstrates the sophistication of this pastoral romance and discusses evidence for the identity of the author and for the date of composition.

Velleius Paterculus

The Caesarian and Augustan Narrative (2.41-93)

A. J. WOODMAN

This second edition of Professor Woodman's edition of, and commentary on, Velleius Paterculus covers Velleius' narrative of the dictator Julius Caesar and of Rome's first emperor, Augustus, down to 19 BC. The author's aim has been both to establish the text and to provide an illuminating commentary on the narrative.

PAPERBACK

Aristotle's Physics

Books III and IV

Translated with notes by Edward Hussey

Books III and IV of the Physics consist of five essays on change, the infinite, place, void, and time. They provide one of the earliest surviving examples of the application of Aristotelian dialectic, and a classic expression of a durable philosophical treatment of these problems. Paperback £6.95 Clarendon Aristotle Series

The Nature of Roman Poetry

Gordon Williams

This book analyses the special features of Roman poetry in the period 240 BC–8 BC, and uses them as the basis for interpreting individual poems. Emphasis is given to the relationship between the poetic tradition and Roman originality. Formerly in the OPUS series, the book is now reissued with an updated bibliography and a postscript in which 'Golden' age poetry is contrasted with that of the 'Silver' age. Paperback £5.95

LOUIS FELDMAN

Josephus and Modern Scholarship

(1937–1980)

Large-octavo. XVI, 1055 pages. 1984. Cloth DM 420,-
ISBN 3 11 008138 5

This volume attempts to list and evaluate all work pertaining to Josephus, directly or indirectly, that has been published during the years 1937 through 1979. It differs from previously published bibliographies of Josephus in four major respects: 1) It is much more exhaustive, listing hundreds of items that have been omitted by other bibliographers and critics; 2) It arranges the subject-matter according to 29 major topics and 428 subtopics, instead of according to year of publication or according to alphabetical order; 3) Above all, it presents not only summaries but, in most cases, criticisms, often at length, of the various items and, for all major problems, an evaluation of the state of the question; 4) It gives a long list of desiderata in the field and the reasons why such works are needed. Because Josephus dealt not only with political and military history but also with religious and cultural issues and because of his importance not only for mainstream Judaism but also for paganism, sectarian Judaism, and Christianity, it presents, in effect, an evaluation of scholarship on the period as a whole.

Main topics are: The text of Josephus; ancient and modern versions; Josephus' life; Josephus' paraphrase of the Bible; Josephus as historian of the post-Biblical period; the war against the Romans; Josephus' sources; Josephus' views on Jewish law; Josephus on Samaritans, Pharisees, Sadducees, Essenes, the Dead Sea Sect; Josephus and Jesus Christianity; Josephus and archaeology; Josephus' style; Josephus' influence; Desiderata.

The Minor Declamations
Ascribed to Quintilian

Critical edition with introduction and commentary
BY MICHAEL WINTERBOTTOM

Large-octavo. XXXIII, 622 pages. 1984. Cloth DM 268,- ISBN 3 11 006769 2 (Vol. 13)

Critical edition (with commentary) of an anonymous collection of Latin practice speeches, connected with the rhetorical school of Quintilian (died c.A.D. 95).

First edition for a hundred years of a key text in Latin declamation, comprising an introduction that places the collection in its context; a new text employing fresh manuscript evidence, with full critical apparatus; and a commentary that discusses textual problems and difficulties of interpretation, and provides linguistic and other parallels especially from Greek and Latin declamation.

Texts and Transmission

A Survey of the Latin Classics

Edited by L.D. Reynolds

This alphabetically arranged handbook presents a series of concise, up-to-date accounts of the manuscript tradition and transmission of Latin texts. £32.50 Clarendon Press

Historia Augusta Papers

Ronald Syme

In these fifteen studies, Sir Ronald Syme reinforces the thesis now beginning to gain wide acceptance, that the Historia Augusta is not the work of six biographers writing under Diocletian and Constantine, but that of a single author, writing at a much later date. £17.50 Clarendon Press

The Orphic Poems

M.L. West

A survey of the poetry composed in antiquity under the name of the legendary Thracian singer Orpheus, with particular emphasis on the theogonies. Professor West discusses the contents and purpose of each poem, and the period and milieu in which it came into being. £25.00 Clarendon Press

The Grand Procession of Ptolemy Philadelphus

E.E. Rice

The description of the vast procession organized by Ptolemy II Philadelphus in Alexandria during the early third century B.C. exists as a fragment of a work by Kallixeinos of Rhodes. Dr Rice here provides the first full treatment of this account, consisting of text, translation, and an extensive commentary. £17.50 Clarendon Press
