

TRANSACTIONS
OF THE
ROYAL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Society as a body is not responsible for the opinions advanced in the following pages

TRANSACTIONS
OF THE
ROYAL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Third Series.

VOL. VI.

LONDON
OFFICES OF THE SOCIETY

7 SOUTH SQUARE, GRAY'S INN, W.C.

1912

CONTENTS

	PAGE
PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS. By the VEN. ARCHDEACON W. CUNNINGHAM, D.D., LL.D., F.B.A., President . (Delivered February 15, 1912.) THE FAMILY AS A POLITICAL UNIT.	1

Lessons of the Glasgow Historical Exhibition—The influence of great families on English and Scottish history—The influence of family life in mediæval Scotland—The clan system—Consistent with commercial progress and an advanced civilisation—Contrast between the feudal system in England and in Scotland—The patriarchal character of the latter system—Its military weakness and lack of political coherence—Its unfavourable economic conditions—The effect of the tribal system on the Church—Progress of the royal authority in later times—Peculiarities of Scottish mediæval tenures—Amelioration due to migrations—The interest of these studies in connection with the new Chair of Scottish History at Glasgow.

THE REIGN OF CHARLES I. By PROFESSOR C. H. FIRTH, F.B.A., V.-P., R.Hist.S. (Read May 16, 1912.) . . .	19
--	----

Ballads of the early years of the reign—Relating to the Thirty Years' War—Ballads by Martin Parker and Lawrence Price—Ballads on the overcrowding of London—Economic ballads—Political satires—The Short Parliament and the battle of Newburn—Ballads against Laud and Strafford—Ballads during the Long Parliament and the Civil War—Ballads on the execution of Charles I.—Ballads referring to the Second Civil War and the Restoration.

SOME ASPECTS OF CASTLEREAGH'S FOREIGN POLICY. By CHARLES K. WEBSTER, M.A., F.R.Hist.S. (Read November 16, 1912.)	65
---	----

A brief consideration of the value of the Foreign Office documents of the years 1814–1822—Castlereagh's Projet de Déclaration at the Congress of Vienna—His description of the proposal in a dispatch of February 13, 1815—Its connection with the proposal to guarantee the dominions of the Porte—Its influence on Alexander—The relations of Castlereagh and Metternich 1815-1817—Reasons for close alliance of England and Austria at end of 1815—Castlereagh not unaware of Metternich's real character—Castlereagh's attitude towards Russia—Attempt of Metternich to form a secret alliance with England—Castlereagh's peremptory refusal.

- THE PARISH CLERGY OF THE THIRTEENTH AND FOURTEENTH CENTURIES. (ALEXANDER PRIZE ESSAY.) By H. G. RICHARDSON, M.A., B.Sc. (Read June 20, 1912) . . . 89

The thirteenth and fourteenth centuries a convenient starting point for the study of the parish clergy of the Middle Ages—Who were the parish clergy—Their houses and their house-fellows—The position of the parish clergy in relation to the agricultural community and to trade—Their income—Their social position and influence—Appendix on the parish clergy and marriage—Appendix on the education of the parish clergy—Bibliography

- THE COMMONWEALTH CHARTERS. By B. L. K. HENDERSON, M.A., F.R.Hist.S. (Read March 21, 1912) . . . 129

Printed text of Salisbury charter—Operations of Committee for Corporations—Composition of that Committee—Classification of Cromwell's charters—Six typical municipal charters—Views of Dr. Gardiner and Mr. Round on the Colchester charter—Reading and its charter—Election of Sir John Barkstead—Ejection of Cromwell's partisans—The major-generals and the election of 1656—The significance of a geographical grouping of the chartered towns—The fate of Cromwell's charters—King's Lynn, Chipping Wycombe, St. Albans, Leeds—The surviving charters—Salisbury and Swansea at the Restoration—The Petitions of 1660 and 1661—Appendix: List of town charters under the Protectorate.

- THE EASTLAND COMPANY IN PRUSSIA, 1579-1585. By PROFESSOR A. SZELAGOWSKI and N. S. B. GRAS, Ph.D. (Harvard). (Read December 21, 1911) . . . 163

Early history of the Eastland Company—Rivalry of Dantzic and Elbing in this period—Foreign alliances and intrigues—English merchants at Elbing—Merchants, Adventurers and Hansards—Attitude of Poland and England towards the Hanse—Position of Lübeck—High-handed policy of Dantzic—Establishment of the English Eastland Company at Elbing—Terms of the settlement—The Diet of Augsburg, 1582—Further negotiations and final agreement between the English and Elbingers—Congress of Lublin and royal Commissions—Recommendations of the Commissioners—Effect of the findings on the position of Dantzic—Progress of Elbing—Relative positions of the Eastlanders, Merchant Adventurers and Hansards in the seventeenth century.

PAGE

THE RECORDS OF THE ENGLISH AFRICAN COMPANIES. By HILARY JENKINSON, B.A., F.S.A., F.R.Hist.S. (Read January 18, 1912) 185

I. Scope of the paper—Its possibilities as matter for a study in 'Diplomatic'—Records: their nature and consequent rules for studying them—Natural arrangement and artificial classification—Supplementary sources.

II. The African Companies—Comparison with other companies and lines of inquiry in present paper—Short study of the history of the companies—Early expeditions to West Africa
(C. 1450)—English expeditions (1481-1565)—Struggles with the Portuguese—The first charter (1588)—Subsequent charters—
The charters of 1660 and 1662.

III. The Records of the Companies—Special features of the Records of the period—The account class—The State Paper class—The printed class—History of the documents—The Records of the first company (1660)—The Records of the second company (1672-1750)—The beginning of classified Record keeping—The Records of the third company.

IV. Lines of Research—The slave trade—Prices—Numbers
—The Middle Passage—The history of the companies—Their connection with foreign politics and the Public Records—
Their monopoly—Subsidisation by the Exchequer—Stock, stockholders and members—The companies in Africa—The servants of the companies.

V. Conclusion.

INDEX 221