States and the Reemergence of Global Finance

From Bretton Woods to the 1990s

ERIC HELLEINER

New in Paper! "This is a fascinating tale of how the international financial system arrived at its present global span. Helleiner argues that the liberalization of financial markets worldwide has been driven largely by government choices, not by technological change or economic pressures. . . . An interesting and provocative book."

CORNELL STUDIES IN SECURITY AFFAIRS

Crucible of Beliefs

Learning, Alliances, and World Wars

DAN REITER

Reiter uses recent work in social psychology and organization theory to build a formative-events model of learning in international politics. History does inform the decisions of policy-makers, he suggests, but it is history of a specific sort, based on firsthand experience in major events such as wars. $35.00

Revolution and War

STEPHEN M. WALT

"Stephen Walt has once again written a landmark work of social science. The war-prone nature of revolutionary states has been noted, but never adequately explained. . . . Walt uses the dramatic history of the French, Russian, and Iranian revolutions to reveal the subtle interplay of power, perceptions, and domestic politics that shapes international relations." —JACK SNYDER, Columbia University $35.00

CORNELL STUDIES IN POLITICAL ECONOMY

National Diversity and Global Capitalism

EDITED BY
SUZANNE BERGER
AND RONALD DORE

This book brings together a distinguished group of experts to consider how the international economy shapes and transforms domestic structures. Drawing from experience in the United States, Europe, and Asia, the contributors ask whether competition, imitation, diffusion of best practice, trade and financial flows are reducing national diversities. $45.00 cloth, $17.95 paper

Norms in International Relations

The Struggle against Apartheid

AUDIE KLOTZ

"[This book] provides a fresh look at the efforts of the international community to bring an end to apartheid, including one of the most sensitive discussions of the Commonwealth that I have seen by an American scholar. Klotz's perspective on sanctions is innovative and imaginative, and will surely sharpen our understanding of how global sanctions affected the process of political change in South Africa." —KIM RICHARD NOSSAL, editor, International Journal. $29.95

Troubled Industries

Confronting Economic Change in Japan

ROBERT M. URIU

Uriu analyzes the industrial policy-making process in Japan for industries faced with sudden economic decline. He takes exception to the traditional view that policy bureaucrats in Japan are autonomous and insulated from societal pressures, arguing that the private sector in Japan has been actively involved in developing and implementing industrial policy.
