

Two Hundred and Fifth Scientific Meeting
 A simplified radioisotopic procedure for the determination of calcium and phosphorus availability. By C. T. WHITTEMORE and A. THOMPSON .. 16A
 Levels of fat mobilizing substance (FMS) in urine of human subjects in physiological and pathological conditions of increased lipid metabolism. By G. L. S. PAWAN .. 17A
 Feeding pattern and glucose tolerance: a species difference. By E. FLORENCE and J. QUARTERMAN .. 18A
 Some effects of early experience of carbohydrates upon subsequent carbohydrate preference. By HEATHER GREENFIELD .. 19A
 Amino acid patterns in the small intestine. By D. W. T. CROMPTON and M. C. NESHEIM .. 20A
 Digestion of heather by red deer. By B. W. STAINES .. 21A
 Effects of dietary tannic acid on the solubility of polyethylene glycol. By R. N. B. KAY .. 22A
 A comparison of methods for measurement of starch in food and gut contents. By J. H. TOPPS and R. N. B. KAY .. 23A
 Sites of digestion in sheep of a dried lucerne fed in three different physical forms. By D. J. THOMSON, D. E. BEEVER, J. F. COELHO DA SILVA and D. G. ARMSTRONG .. 24A
 Effects of drying grass on sites of its digestion in sheep. By D. E. BEEVER, D. J. THOMSON, E. PFEFFER and D. G. ARMSTRONG .. 26A
 Absorption of volatile fatty acids in sheep. By B. N. PERRY and D. G. ARMSTRONG .. 27A
 Nucleic acids in bovine nutrition. 3. Fate of nucleic acids presented to the small intestine. By R. H. SMITH, A. B. McALLAN and W. B. HILL .. 28A β -Hydroxybutyrate as a precursor of milk fat in the ruminant. By S. MCCARTHY and G. H. SMITH .. 28A
 The effect of energy nutrition on blood amino acid levels in the lactating cow. By A. F. HALFPENNY, G. H. SMITH and J. A. F. ROOK .. 29A
 Using the oesophageal groove reflex in ruminants as a means of bypassing rumen fermentation with high-quality protein and other nutrients. By E. R. ORSKOV and D. BENZIE .. 30A
 The influence of caecal starch infusion in sheep and faecal output of nitrogen, starch and dry matter. By E. R. ORSKOV and MERYL H. FOOT .. 31A
 An estimate of bacterial protein synthesis in sheep on a constant feeding regime. By SARAH A. ROBERTS and E. L. MILLER .. 32A
 Methods for the direct estimation of undigested dietary nitrogen in sheep faeces. By V. C. MASON .. 33A
 Single amino acids as non-protein nitrogen sources for adult sheep. By MARGARET I. CHALMERS and A. D. HUGHES .. 34A
 Estimation of urea in rumen contents and the rate of urea degradation in the rumen of adult sheep. By MARGARET I. CHALMERS, A. D. HUGHES and ALICE E. JAFFREY .. 35A

FORTHCOMING ISSUE

It is hoped to publish in the next issue of the Proceedings of The Nutrition Society reports of symposia on Nutritional Disorders of Ruminants (28 February 1969) and Biochemical Assessment of Protein Needs (27 March 1969) and abstracts of communications to be presented at meetings on 28 March 1969, 12 April 1969 and 23 May 1969

Proceedings of the Nutrition Society

CONTENTS OF VOL. 28, No. 1, MARCH 1969

SYMPOSIUM PROCEEDINGS

Two Hundred and First Scientific Meeting
FIRST DRUMMOND MEMORIAL LECTURE

The assessment of nutritional status in protein-malnourished children. By R. G. WHITEHEAD	PAGE 1
---	-----------

Two Hundred and Second Scientific Meeting
NUTRITION OF THE FOETUS AND THE NEWLY BORN

How the foetus is fed. By ELSIE M. WIDDOWSON	17
The foetus as a parasite. By D. J. NAISMITH	25
Pathological and experimental studies of intrauterine malnutrition. By J. S. WIGGLESWORTH	31
The transmission of immune globulins from the mother to the foetal and newborn young. By F. W. ROGERS BRAMBELL	35
Carbohydrate metabolism in the foetus and the newly born. By HEATHER J. SHELLEY	42
Hypoglycaemia in the newly born baby. By G. A. NELIGAN	49
Nutrition and thermoregulation in the newborn pig. By L. E. MOUNT	52
Nutrition and temperature control in the newborn baby. By DAVID HULL	56
The starving newborn baby. By A. W. WILKINSON	61
Feeding the newborn baby. By PAMELA A. DAVIES	66
General discussion. Opened by J. P. M. TIZARD	72

Two Hundred and Fourth Scientific Meeting
NEW SOURCES OF FOOD PROTEIN

The alleviation of the world protein shortage. By A. A. WOODHAM	76
Problems in the development of fish protein concentrates. By J. A. LOVERN	81
The production and use of leaf protein. By N. W. PIRIE	85
The production and evaluation of protein derived from organisms grown on hydrocarbon residues. By C. A. SHACKLADY	91
Economic and production problems in the development of new protein sources. By G. B. GALLIVER	97
Overcoming resistance to new food products. By J. C. MCKENZIE	103

Two Hundred and Sixth Scientific Meeting
DIGESTION IN THE ABOMASUM AND INTESTINE OF THE RUMINANT

Flow of digesta in the intestine of the ruminant. By R. W. ASH	110
Digestion in the pre-ruminant animal. By J. W. G. PORTER	115
Post-abomasal digestion of carbohydrate in the adult ruminant. By D. G. ARMSTRONG and D. E. BEEVER	121
Digestion and absorption of lipids in the ruminant. By G. A. GARTON	131
Digestion of protein in the intestines of adult ruminants. By R. N. B. KAY	140
Absorption of major minerals in the small and large intestines of the ruminant. By R. H. SMITH	151
Diarrhoea of nutritional origin. By J. H. B. ROY	160

ABSTRACTS OF COMMUNICATIONS

Two Hundred and Third Scientific Meeting

Vitamin nutrition of patients on regular dialysis treatment (RDT). By J. C. MACKENZIE and J. E. FORD	1A
The nutritional effects of ϵ -N-acylation on free and peptide-linked lysine. By J. BJARNASON AND K. J. CARPENTER	2A
A comparison of the Carpenter and Silcock methods for available lysine determination in protein concentrates and diets. By H. OSTROWSKI	3A
An electrophoretic study of groundnut protein fractions prepared by different methods. By R. DAWSON	4A
The influence of diets containing low or high levels of fish meal, casein plus gelatin or meat meal on the survival of chicks infected with Salmonella gallinarum . By R. HILL and I. M. SMITH	5A
The concentration of copper, zinc and manganese in the liver of African children with marasmus and kwashi-orkor. By P. J. WARREN, J. D. L. HANSEN and B. H. LEHMANN	6A
Observations on the passage of food through the gastro-intestinal tract of the rat. By ANNE W. MITCHELL and D. A. T. SOUTHGATE	7A
The relation between dietary intake and the transfer of vitamin A from a cat to her kittens. By PATRICIA P. SCOTT and S. Y. THOMPSON	8A
Vitamin A as a possible factor in human teratology. By ISABEL GAL, I. M. SHARMAN, J. PRYSE-DAVIES and T. MOORE	9A
Serum fructose levels in male and female baboons following single intravenous injections of fructose. By M. H. JOURDAN	10A
Plasma lipids, glucose tolerance, insulin levels and body-weight in men after diets rich in sucrose. By STEPHEN SZANTO and JOHN YUDKIN	11A
The influence of coffee drinking on plasma lipids and fasting blood glucose in healthy human volunteers. By D. J. NAISMITH, P. AKINYANJU and JOHN YUDKIN	12A
The nutritional value of the low-carbohydrate diet used in the treatment of obesity. By ANNE L. NICHOLSON and JOHN YUDKIN	13A
An evaluation of English diets of the 1860s. By D. J. ODDY and JOHN YUDKIN	14A
The nutritive value of Professor Chittenden's low-protein diet. By ALISON PAUL and J. P. GREAVES	15A
