

Tables

1.1	Salience of cleavages in Norway and Rhineland/Westphalia/ North Rhine–Westphalia up to the postwar reform period	page 17
2.1	Population in Norway, 1735–2015	35
2.2	Norwegian resident population in densely and sparsely populated areas and per km ² , 1845–1970	36
2.3	Population in the area of today’s North Rhine–Westphalia, 1816–2013	45
2.4	Percentages of Protestants and Roman Catholics in the German population, 1871–1987	47
2.5	German population in rural and urban municipalities (in percentages) and per km ² , 1875–2000	51
3.1	Composition of Norwegian governments and ministers of education, 1951–83	68
3.2	Party membership in Norway over time	70
3.3	Numbers of paid staff of Norwegian parties over time	71
3.4	Income of party head offices in Norway over time (in Norwegian kroner)	72
3.5	Membership numbers of the main Norwegian teachers’ organizations	73
3.6	Total size of budget of teachers’ organizations and amount of membership fees over time, rounded figures (in Norwegian kroner)	75
3.7	West German and North Rhine–Westphalian governments and ministers of education over time	81
3.8	Party membership in West Germany over time	82
3.9	Numbers of paid staff of West German parties over time	83

3.10	Income of party head offices in West Germany over time (in deutsche marks)	84
3.11	Membership numbers of the main teachers' organizations in North Rhine–Westphalia, 1960–80	86
3.12	Overview of most relevant actors in education politics, 1950s–1970s	89
4.1	Similarities between ideological arguments in comprehensive school debates	145
4.2	Differences between hegemonic ideological arguments in comprehensive school debates	145
5.1	Number of Catholic, Protestant, and common Volksschulen in North Rhine–Westphalia, 1953–69	165
5.2	Education policy expressions of cleavages in Norway and North Rhine–Westphalia during the postwar reform period	235