Fetish, Recognition, Revolution

James T. Siegel

This book concerns the role of language in the Indonesian revolution. James Siegel traces the beginnings of the Indonesian revolution, which occurred from 1945 through 1949 and which ended Dutch colonial rule, to the last part of the nineteenth century. At that time, the peoples of the Dutch East Indies began to translate literature from most places in the world.

Siegel discovers in that moment a force within communication more important than the specific messages it conveyed. The taming of this force in Indonesian nationalism and the continuation of its wild form in the revolution are the major subjects of the book. Its material is literature from Indonesian and Dutch as well as first-person accounts of the revolution.

Theft of an Idol

Text and Context in the Representation of Collective Violence
Paul R. Brass

As collective violence erupts in many regions throughout the world, we often hear media reports that link the outbreaks to age-old ethnic or religious hostilities, thereby freeing the state, its agents, and its political elites from responsibility. Paul Brass encourages us to look more closely at the issues of violence, ethnicity, and the state by focusing on specific instances of violence in their local contexts and questioning the prevailing interpretations of them.

Through five case studies of both rural and urban public violence, including police-public confrontations and Hindu-Muslim riots, Brass shows how government and the media select those that support existing relations of power in state and society.

Art of the Houma Foundry

Shanxi Provincial Institute of Archaeology

Art of the Houma Foundry is an illustrated repertory of archaeological finds made at the site of a sixth- to fifth-century B.C. bronze foundry located at modern Houma in Shanxi Province, P.R.C. The excavation of the foundry site, the largest known in the ancient world, was important above all for the spectacular wealth of decorated clay foundry-debris that was recovered there.

This book presents 1,200 of the most notable pieces of decorated foundry debris in photographs and drawings. Though unearthed more than thirty years ago, most of this material has never been published.
