
Mobility in Britain Reconsidered

Working Papers, Volume II

Edited by J. M. Ridge

This is the second of two volumes reporting the results of work undertaken by a group of Oxford sociologists in preparation for a national survey of occupational change in England and Wales. Methodological issues are again discussed; the scaling of occupational status and the analysis of change patterns of stratification are examples. The emphasis is on the effects of family and schooling on people's job-chances: how big these effects are, how they are produced, and how we can measure changes in them. Paper covers £1.65 Oxford Studies in Social Mobility

The Social Grading of Occupations

A New Approach and Scale

John H. Goldthorpe and
Keith Hope

The authors have produced a coherent system for grouping occupations, based on the procedures used in the British Census, but more discriminating than the officially defined categories. They have obtained popular assessments of the social standing of several hundred occupations and, by a novel application of sampling procedures, constructed a scale upon which the position of any employed male can be determined with a known degree of precision. Questions.
Your students have many about social policy.

Here are two new texts that offer them some answers —

THE POLITICS OF SOCIAL SERVICES

by Jeffrey Galper, Temple University

NEW — A socialistic approach to the analysis of social services. This modern, up-to-date reference book provides a consistent, systematically developed theory that avoids stereotyping and comparisons with outdated theory. Throughout, social services are dealt with in broadest terms then detailed and applied to practical situations.

1975, approx. 250 pp. Price Forthcoming

HOUSING AND SOCIAL POLICY

by Chester Hartman, University of California, Berkeley

NEW — This text provides a complete critical overview of the American housing system, highlighting outstanding problems and focusing on the reasons they exist. A comprehensive treatment, this provocative text explores the economic origins of the contemporary housing situation by examining the profit system and by offering a perspective on the socio-economic issues involved.

1974 approx. 176 pp. cloth, $6.95; paper, $2.95.

The P-H SOCIAL POLICY SERIES, Howard E. Freeman, Editor

"The purpose of this series is to provide, for a broad audience, a social science perspective on the issues, policy considerations, and alternatives for action in today's areas of major social concern."

Both new books are available in the SOCIAL POLICY SERIES. For further information on these and any other books in the series, write to: Robert Jordan, Dept. J-37, College Division, Prentice-Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of Social Policy, The London School of Economics and Political Science, Houghton Street, Aldwych, London WC2A 2AE. All books for review should be sent to: The Review Editor, Journal of Social Policy, Department of Sociology, Goldsmiths' College, University of London, Lewisham Way, London SE14.
2. Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 10,000 words including footnotes, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the Editor. Short articles stand a better chance of early publication.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.
4. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins. Contributors should send two copies and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
5. Contributions should be accompanied by an abstract of between one and two hundred words.
6. References to books and articles should include the following details: in the case of books, the full title and author or authors, place of publication, publisher and date; in the case of articles, the title and author or authors, full name of the journal, volume, year and page reference (first and last page). References and other footnotes should be numbered consecutively throughout and typed separately at the end of the article. Good articles which contain this bibliographical information will be accepted, even if they do not follow the journal's own arrangement of the information.
7. Tables should be clearly laid out and designed to fit on to a page $9\frac{1}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified.
8. Contributors are advised to look through earlier issues of the journal for guidance on points of general style.
9. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editor, by airmail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
10. Authors of articles and review articles (but not book reviews) receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
