international review of social history

The journal is edited by the International Institute of Social History, Amsterdam, and appears three times a year. Since its inception in 1956 it has become the leading journal on the history of social classes and social relations, the European labour movement occupying a preponderant place.

Each issue of about 130 pages provides articles and studies by experts of international standing. As a special feature, entitled "Documents", the journal carries hitherto unpublished source materials, for which it can draw on the rich collections of the International Institute of Social History. Moreover, each issue includes a comprehensive descriptive bibliography of current literature on social history and related themes. Articles are written in English, German and French.

Recent publications are:

Working-class housing problems in Britain 1850-1914, by Richard Rodger

Strikes and power in Britain 1870-1920, by James E. Croning

JOURNAL OF HISTORICAL SOCIOLOGY

Edited by Gavin Williams, Derek Sayer,
Roy Porter and Jane Schneider

Recent years have witnessed a growing erosion of traditional boundaries between history and the social sciences. Women's history, history from below, quantitative history, mentalités and the longue durée, are now central concerns for historians. Sociologists have increasingly adopted historical approaches to the study of areas as diverse as crime, law and the state, education and sexuality, and reopened the large-scale comparative and historical questions which lay at the foundation of sociology in the 19th century. The Journal of Historical Sociology aims to further this rapprochement of history and the social sciences. With a distinguished editorial board of historians, sociologists and anthropologists drawn from several continents, the JHS is avowedly international and interdisciplinary. It provides a forum for the best in contemporary historical sociology, irrespective of its disciplinary provenance or theoretical standpoint.

Journal of Historical Sociology is published in March, June, September and December

Boundaries

The Making of France and Spain in the Pyrenees

PETER SAHLINS

"An unusual and exciting book . . . local history with a quite unexpected kick to it—how states and nations are constructed from the bottom up, as well as from the top down. . . . I can see this book finding a privileged place on the shelves of European historians."

—Eric R. Wolf, author of Europe and the People Without History

Combining the social history of the Catalan rural communities in the borderland and the political history of French-Spanish relations, Sahlins offers a number of unexpected conclusions about the evolution of boundaries and the development of national identities. $35.00

The Origins of Backwardness in Eastern Europe

Economics and Politics from the Middle Ages until the Early Twentieth Century

Edited by DANIEL CHIROT

This study makes a convincing case for very deep roots of current Eastern European backwardness. Its conclusions are suggestive for comparativists studying other parts of the world. One of its most important lessons is that while economics may limit the freedom of action of political players, it does not determine political outcomes. $35.00

A Quest for Time

The Reduction of Work in Britain and France, 1840-1940

GARY CROSS

In the interwar years, the eight-hour day, the weekend, and the summer vacation became widespread in industrial Europe. These institutions were not natural products of economic growth, but fruits of a century of theoretical debate, industrial and political conflict, and cultural change. Cross analyzes the origins of these rights to free time to answer key questions of political economy, labor reform, and working-class culture. He endeavors to discover comparative and international aspects of this quest for time. $39.95

Livelihood and Resistance

Peasants and the Politics of Land in Peru

GAVIN SMITH

"[Smith] links two broadly conceived analytic themes—the forms and logics of these people's livelihood and the politics of resistance. . . . His exploration of these introduces a third, historical problematic: changing forms of livelihood, changing forms of political struggle. Smith's approach to each of the individual themes is impressive, richly detailed and suggestive and his conclusions are very important."

JOURNAL OF MULTILINGUAL AND MULTICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

Editor: Derrick Sharp

Review Editor: Colin Williams

Editorial Board:

Adebisi Afolayan, H. Baetens Beardsmore, W. Butzkamm, Michael Byram, Maurice Craft, Jim Cummins, Carl J. Dodson, Carol M. Eastman, John Edwards, Howard Giles, François Grosjean, Jagdish S. Gundara, Godfrey Harrison, Gottfried Kolde, Mildred L. Larson, Christer Laurén, P. H. Nelde, John Platt, Miguel Siguan, T. Skutnabb-Kangas, Alan Thomas.

This journal, which has a truly international Editorial Board, is now in its ninth year of publication. It has ranged widely in the relevant fields, and we are now keen to extend the range by publishing articles and research studies dealing with cultural and intercultural issues. At the same time we shall continue our coverage of all aspects of bilingualism and multiculturalism, and of the rights and obligations of minorities, from many different points of view.

Our experience so far indicates that there is a rich vein of high quality papers in all corners of the world, and a corresponding, committed readership involved actively in the opportunities, difficulties and challenges of bilingual, multilingual and multicultural communities. It is clear that a great deal of very good work is going on in many quarters. One prime function of the Journal of Multilingual and Multicultural Development is to disseminate views and experiences as widely as possible. The articles are supported in this task by sections which give short reports of works in progress, book reviews and letters from readers.

Books by Lewis S. Feuer

IMPERIALISM AND THE ANTI-IMPERIALIST MIND

"What a delight! . . . Feuer blends the coverage of history and biography to illuminate the 'main trends of our time' with both finesse and thorough scholarship."

—Joseph Brandon

CONTEMPORARY SOCIOLOGY

"This study is a special distillation of the knowledge of a scholar whose intellectual interests have never been narrow."

—Raymond F. Betts

AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVIEW

ISBN: 0-88738-792-6 (paper) 265 pp.

$17.95

SPINOZA AND THE RISE OF LIBERALISM

" . . . a careful and well documented study . . . a valuable addition to the literature on Spinoza."

—Marten Ten Hoor

THE JOURNAL OF POLITICS

"This is not the usual sentimental and idolatrous biography, but a critical account of a man's political ideas as they were molded by the current events of his time."

—George Boas

JOURNAL OF THE HISTORY OF IDEAS

ISBN: 0-88738-701-2 (paper) 344 pp.

$19.95

EINSTEIN AND THE GENERATIONS OF SCIENCE

SECOND EDITION

"An excellent study of philosophical, psychological, and sociological roots of the 20th century revolution in science. . . . (Feuer's) grasp of the physics involved is excellent. The book will be invaluable to historians of science."

—LIBRARY JOURNAL

"From his subtle but lucid explication of the century's generational dynamics there emerges a portrait of recent developments in theoretical physics as vivid and schematic as a periodic table. From his sketches of the individual physicists radiates a drama scintillating as a superior novel of ideas."

—NEW YORK TIMES

Worlds Within Worlds: The Structure of Life in Sixteenth-Century London

Steve Rappaport

The author analyzes the individual careers of over 1,000 inhabitants and shows that the institutional superstructure of the city was more adaptable, its small social organizations more resilient, and opportunities for social mobility far greater than has been previously thought.

$54.50

Height, Health and History

Nutritional Status in the United Kingdom, 1750–1980

Roderick Floud, Annabel Gregory and Kenneth Wachter

A new study which uses a wealth of military and philanthropic data to establish the changing heights of Britons during the period of industrialization.

Cambridge Studies in Population, Economy and Society in Past Time 9

About $54.50

Famine, Disease and the Social Order in Early Modern Society

John Walter and Roger Schofield, Editors

The essays in the volume examine the complex interrelationships among past demographic, social and economic structures, and demonstrate that the impact of hunger and disease can provide a unique vehicle for an exploration of early modern society.

Contributors: Jacques Dupâquier, Peter Laslett, David Levine, Roger Schofield, Paul Slack, John Walter, David R. Weir, Keith Wrightson, E.A. Wrigley.

Cambridge Studies in Population, Economy and Society in Past Time 10

$49.50

Standards of Living in the Later Middle Ages

Christopher Dyer

The author looks at aristocrats, peasants, townsmen, wage-earners, and paupers, examining how they obtained and spent their incomes.

Class Formation and Urban Industrial Society

Bradford, 1750–1850

Theodore Koditschek

This book examines the process by which a capitalist society emerged in Bradford. Through his analysis of Bradford's growth, the author depicts processes that were more gradually transforming the wider society of 19th century Britain and subsequently spreading throughout the world.

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical, or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, 102 Rackham Building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109-1070.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
