

Daniel M. Ogden, State Col. of Wash., short report on Democratic delegation.

West Virginia: William R. Ross, W. Va. Univ., short report on Democratic delegation; Paul D. Stewart, Marshall Col., correspondent.

Wisconsin: William H. Young, Univ. of Wis., case study of Republican delegation; William S. Shepherd, Beloit Col., short report on Democratic delegation.

Wyoming: Charles A. Bloomfield, Univ. of Wyo., correspondent.

Alaska:

District of Columbia: W. Rowland Ludden, George Washington Univ., short report on each delegation.

Hawaii: Daniel W. Tuttle, Univ. of Hawaii, short report on each delegation.

Puerto Rico:

APPOINTMENTS AND STAFF CHANGES

Pedro E. Abelarde, formerly a member of the staff of the Philippines Delegation to the United Nations, has joined the staff of the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency as economic affairs officer in charge of foreign trade and commerce for Korea.

Spencer D. Albright of the University of Richmond is a visiting professor of political science at Emory University for the summer session of 1952.

Luther A. Allen of the University of Chicago has recently been serving as instructor in the department of political science at the University of Delaware.

Guthrie S. Birkhead of Syracuse University is serving as visiting assistant professor of political science at the University of Missouri during the summer session of 1952.

Thomas C. Blaisdell, Jr., formerly assistant secretary of the United States Department of Commerce, has been appointed director of the Bureau of International Relations, University of California (Berkeley).

Hugh A. Bone of the University of Washington is a visiting professor at Columbia University for the summer quarter of 1952. He was recently appointed as a member of the executive committee of the Washington Committee on State Government Organization.

William E. Briggs has been appointed to an assistant professorship in political science and public administration at American University. He is serving as academic director of the Washington Semester Program, which is administered by the department of political science and public administration of American University.

D. W. Brogan, professor of political science at the University of Cambridge, has been appointed to a Walker-Ames professorship at the University of Washington for the autumn quarter, 1952. While at the University of Washington, he will offer courses in political theory and comparative government.

Richard G. Brown is teaching on a part-time basis in the department of political science and public administration of American University.

Manuel García Calderón of the University of San Marcos, Peru, served during the spring quarter of 1952 as visiting professor at the University of North Carolina, where he offered a course in inter-American international law. He came to the University of North Carolina under the auspices of the United States Department of State and the University's Institute of Latin American Studies.

Gwendolen M. Carter, chairman of the department of government at Smith College, has been advanced to a full professorship at that institution.

Harold Chase is expected to return to his position at the University of Delaware in September, after two years of service with the United States Marines.

Asher N. Christensen of the University of Minnesota is a member of the summer session staff of the Salzburg Seminar on American Studies.

O. B. Conaway, Jr., has resigned as acting director of the Bureau of Public Administration of Boston University to become assistant director of the Graduate School of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hedley V. Cooke, a foreign service officer of the United States from 1928 to 1946, and, more recently, a member of the Middle East Planning Staff of the Economic Cooperation Administration, was a visiting lecturer in political science at the University of Alabama during the spring semester of 1952.

Lee C. Corter has been advanced to an assistant professorship at Pennsylvania State College.

Vera Micheles Dean, research director of the Foreign Policy Association, will be a visiting professor of government at Smith College during the academic year 1952-53. Her course offerings will include an interdepartmental course on contemporary India and its role in Asia.

Larry Dennis, formerly instructor in political science and journalism at the State University of Iowa, and more recently special assistant to the United States Commissioner of Education, has joined the editorial writing staff of The Register and Tribune, Des Moines, Iowa.

William DeSiero has been serving as lecturer in the department of political science at the University of Bridgeport.

Conley H. Dillon, on leave from his position as head of the department of political science at Marshall College to serve in the Office of Price Stabilization in Washington, D. C., has been promoted to the position of chief, Service Trades Branch, Services, Export-Import Division of the Office of Price Stabilization.

Paul Dolan, associate professor of political science at the University of Delaware, served during the past year as acting chairman of the department of political science at that institution.

Oliver P. Field has been named acting chairman of the department of government at Indiana University to serve until a successor to the late Ford P. Hall, former chairman of the department, is selected.

Julian R. Friedman, recently lecturer in colonial administration at the London School of Economics and Political Science, was lecturer in political science at the University of California (Berkeley) during the spring semester of 1952.

Wilfred C. Gilbert has been serving as acting director of the Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, during the absence of Ernest S. Griffith.

Leon Godshall, head of the department of international relations at Lehigh University, is a visiting lecturer at West Virginia University for the summer session of 1952.

Alex Gottfried has recently been on leave from his position as assistant professor of political science at the University of Washington for research under a Ford Foundation fellowship.

Ernest S. Griffith has been on leave from his position as director of the Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, while serving as visiting professor at Oxford University, under a Fulbright grant. His appointment abroad also includes lecture courses at the Universities of Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Oslo and Swansea.

Dell G. Hitchner of the University of Washington is a visiting professor at the University of Utah for the first term of the summer quarter of 1952.

Charles S. Hyneman has been appointed as a member of the Civil Service Commission of the Sanitary District of Chicago.

Frank H. Jonas has been granted a second year's leave of absence from the University of Utah to permit him to continue for another year in his assignment in the Office of the United States High Commissioner for Germany.

Louis G. Kahle, assistant professor of political science at the University of Missouri, was appointed as a research fellow for the summer of 1952.

Herbert Kaufman has joined the staff of the department of government of the City College of New York.

Lionel H. Laing of the University of Michigan is a visiting member of the faculty of the University of British Columbia for the summer of 1952.

Harold D. Lasswell, who has been professor of law at Yale University since 1946, has been designated professor of law and political science at that institution. Professor Lasswell and Nathan Leites, lecturer in political science, will offer a one-year graduate course in political behavior.

W. Richard Lomax was on leave from Indiana University during February and March, 1952, for work with the staff of the United States Senate's subcommittee on manpower utilization in the federal government.

Allen McConnell, recently a graduate student at Columbia University, has been appointed instructor in political science at Brown University.

Ellis McCune has been appointed instructor in political science and director of the curriculum in applied politics and economics at Occidental College.

Howard J. McMurray of the University of New Mexico is a visiting professor at the University of Washington for the summer quarter of 1952.

Charles E. Martin of the University of Washington is a visiting professor at the University of Hawaii for the summer of 1952.

Wiley W. Mather, attorney at Upland, California, has been appointed lecturer in American government at Pomona College.

Edward W. Mill, formerly American consul, Surabaya, Indonesia, served as lecturer in political science at the University of California (Berkeley) during the spring semester of 1952.

Eugene H. Miller of Ursinus College served as visiting professor of international relations at Lehigh University during the spring semester of 1952.

G. T. Mitau has been promoted to a professorship in political science at Macalester College and named co-chairman of the department of political science at that institution.

William Mitchell has resigned from his position as associate professor of government at the University of Massachusetts to accept a position in Washington, D. C.

Lewis Nixon is teaching on a part-time basis in the department of political science and public administration at American University.

Edward S. Overman of the University of Virginia served as visiting professor at the University of Alabama and as educational director of the Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration during the spring of 1952, in the absence of Albert Lepawsky.

Howard Page is giving a portion of his time to teaching in the department of political science and public administration of American University.

Norman D. Palmer, chairman of the department of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, will serve as visiting lecturer in political science at the University of Delhi, India, from July, 1952, to April, 1953, under a Fulbright grant.

Roy V. Peel has joined the part-time teaching staff of the department of political science and public administration of American University.

Norman J. Powell has been advanced to an associate professorship at the City College of New York.

Richard Frost Reath is serving as director of the summer session at Occidental College.

Channing B. Richardson, instructor at Columbia University during the past two years, has been appointed assistant professor of government at Hamilton College.

J. W. Robinson is on leave from Whittier College for the summer of 1952, and is engaged in research at the United Nations headquarters in New York.

Charles C. Rohlfing will serve as chairman of the department of political science at the University of Pennsylvania during the absence of Norman D. Palmer. Professor Rohlfing has been serving as acting executive director and secretary of the Greater Philadelphia Movement.

Joseph S. Roucek of the University of Bridgeport is a visiting professor of political science at the University of Puerto Rico for the summer session of 1952.

Dorothy Schaffter served as head of the Government Section, Legislative Reference Service, Library of Congress, during the spring of 1952, in the absence of W. Brooke Graves, who was visiting professor in public administration at Florida State University.

Chandler Shaw, head of the department of history and political science at Bethany College, is a visiting lecturer at West Virginia University for the summer session of 1952.

George A. Shipman of the University of Washington has been appointed as a member of the executive committee of the Washington Committee on State Government Organization.

William R. Smyser, foreign service officer (retired), has been appointed lecturer in political science at the University of Pennsylvania.

Marvin Tableman, formerly an instructor in political science and a staff member of the Institute of Public Administration at the University of Michigan, has been appointed as administrative assistant to the governor of Michigan.

Richard W. Taylor, instructor in political science at the University of Minnesota, was recently appointed faculty adviser for the program in England of the Minnesota Student Project for Amity Among Nations. He is directing the field work for twenty-one students who are studying in England during the summer of 1952. In addition, he is studying the British government's organization for economic planning, under a research grant from the Graduate School of the University of Minnesota.

John Wahlke of Amherst College taught at the University of Massachusetts on a part-time basis during the spring semester of 1952.

Lawrence C. Wanlass, assistant professor of political science at Mount Holyoke College, taught at the University of Massachusetts on a part-time basis during the spring semester of 1952.

Frederick M. Watkins has resigned as Angus Professor of Political Science at McGill University in order to accept an appointment as professor of political science at Yale University.

James T. Watkins, IV, has been named acting executive head of the department of political science of Stanford University.

E. E. Weaver of the Institute of Government, University of Utah, recently served as educational director for the annual regional training schools conducted by the Utah Association of County Officials. He also conducted the regional training schools sponsored by the Utah Municipal League during the spring quarter of 1952.

Donald H. Webster of the University of Washington has been appointed as a member of the executive committee of the Washington Committee on State Government Organization.

Wah Wong of Columbia University was a visiting member of the political science faculty of the University of Washington during the spring quarter of 1952.

IN MEMORIAM

Jacob Tanger. Jacob Tanger, emeritus professor of political science at the Pennsylvania State College, died suddenly of a heart attack on December 20, 1951, at the age of 71. As a young man he taught for a year at the Carnegie Institute of Technology and for five years at the University of Pennsylvania. Upon receiving his Ph.D. degree from the latter institution, he accepted an instructorship at Penn State, where he remained for thirty years, retiring from active duty in 1946. He served as head of the division of political science at Penn State for a number of years and was named as first head of the department of political science which was established in 1940. Dr. Tanger was an active member of the Pennsylvania Political Science Association and served as its president from 1946 to 1948. He was co-author of a textbook, Pennsylvania Government, State and Local, and was editor of The Constitution of Pennsylvania. He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth.—R. WALLACE BREWSTER.

John Ely Briggs. John Ely Briggs, professor of political science at the State University of Iowa, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home in Iowa City, on February 9, 1952, at the age of sixty-one. Receiving his bachelor's degree at Morningside College in 1913, he attended the State University of Iowa, where he received the A.M. degree in 1914 and the Ph.D. degree in 1916. In 1946, Morningside College conferred the LL.D. degree upon him. For thirty-eight years, with a brief time out for teaching assignments at the University of Colorado and the Ohio State University, he was a member of the department of political science of the State Univer-