Sophocles: Philoctetes

Edited by T. B. L. WEBSTER

Professor Webster's edition is based on the Oxford Classical Text. It is the only available commentary that explains the essential problems of the play—textual, linguistic, literary and metrical—in simple language and at a level appropriate to the actual needs of English-speaking school and university students.

Athenian Propertied Families

J. K. DAVIES

The author argues that it is possible on the basis of property-ownership to define the 'Athenian upper class' and to identify some of its members. In a selective biographical dictionary, rich families are entered under the name of their most prominent member (with extensive cross-referencing), and each entry sets out the available evidence for dates of births, marriages, and for the changing extent and nature of family property and public disbursements. 9 tables £7

The Making of Homeric Verse

The Collected Papers of Milman Parry

Edited by ADAM PARRY

The articles and French dissertations of Milman Parry (d. 1935) are generally held to be the most original and significant contribution to the study of Homer in this century. They are all published in this volume, together with Parry's unpublished M.A. thesis and extracts from his Yugoslavian journal. The editor has translated the French dissertations, and furnished an introduction on the life and intellectual development of his father, followed by a survey of later work on Homer in Parry's tradition. Frontispiece £6

Some Problems of Greek History

ARNOLD TOYNBEE

The centre-piece of this group of studies is a substantial work on the rise and decline of Sparta covering the period c. 600–c. 200 B.C. Dr Toynbee also studies the post-Mycenaean migration of peoples, and the spread of the Greek language in the northern hinterland of Greece. He concludes with an exploration of hypothetical situations. 3 maps £7

The Palace of Nestor at Pylos in Western Messenia

Volume II: The Frescoes

MABEL L. LANG

From thousands of fragments of plaster, the author has assembled clues to the scheme of the wall painting in this royal palace destroyed by fire at the end of the thirteenth century B.C. The chronology of the frescoes, the subject matter, the techniques employed, and their relationship with fresco decoration elsewhere all have important ramifications for the study of Minoan-Mycenaean painting. 144 half-tone plates. 18 colour plates. 1 folding plate-reference list £19

Early Christianity and Greek Paideia

WERNER JAEGER

Professor Jaeger distils the essence of the massive historical analysis projected in the preface to the last volumes of Paideia. He gives a cogent outline of the historic encounter between Hellenic civilization and Christianity and their ultimate synthesis in a new set of ideals and values. The Legacy of Greece

Edited by
SIR RICHARD LIVINGSTONE

For nearly half a century this book has fulfilled its aim: to give 'some idea of what the world owes to Greece in various realms of the spirit and the intellect, and of what it can still learn from her'. Gilbert Murray, W. R. Inge, John Burnet, Sir Thomas Heath, D'Arcy W. Thompson, Charles Singer, Sir Richard Livingstone, Arnold Toynbee, A. E. Zimmern, Percy Gardner, and Sir Reginald Blomfield, all contribute chapters. Also available in hard covers at 28/- 36 plates 12/- Oxford Paperbacks

The Spartan Tradition in European Thought

ELIZABETH RAWSON

This book outlines the little we know of ancient Sparta, describes Greek reactions to the ambiguous institutions of the great rival to democratic Athens, makes a first attempt to follow the subsequent fortunes of the debate, and indicates Sparta's role, over twenty-five centuries, in the intellectual history of Europe. 6 plates 75/-

The Philosophy of Aristotle

D. J. ALLAN

In this 'admirably lucid and sympathetic introduction to Aristotle' (The Times), the author's purpose is to outline the philosopher's principal doctrines with reference to the circumstances in which they were formed. For this second edition Professor Allan has rewritten Part III of his book, added a new chapter on the Poetics and literary criticism, and revised the Bibliography. 2nd edition 9/- Oxford Paperbacks University Series

A Historical Commentary on Thucydides

Volume IV Books V25-VII
A. W. GOMME, A. ANDREWES
and K. J. DOVER

A Historical Commentary on Thucydides is planned to be in five volumes. The first, containing a general Introduction and Commentary on Book I, was published in 1944 (42/-): the second and third covering the Ten Years War, Books II-V25, were published in 1956 (90/-). The fifth volume will contain Book VIII plus an Appendix and General Index. 8 maps £5

Aristotle's Physics I, II

Translated with an introduction and notes
by W. CHARLTON

Aristotle's Physics occupy an important place in the history of scientific thought. The intention of this volume is to provide a close literal translation, which can be used by serious students without a knowledge of Greek. The introduction and commentary deal with the interpretation and assessment, from a philosophical standpoint, of what Aristotle says. 40/- cloth; 20/- paper covers Clarendon Aristotle Series

Greek Sophists in the Roman Empire

G. W. BOWERSOCK

This book is a full-scale analysis, the first ever to be done wholly in historical terms, of the Greek cultural renaissance of the second and third centuries A.D. That great revival, which left behind it a vast literature, is shown through a study of its representatives to be an integral and important part of the history of the Roman Empire. 38/-

Nomos and the Beginnings of the Athenian Democracy

MARTIN OSTWALD

Professor Ostwald demonstrates how a close study of the use of language can be made to throw light on a problem of constitutional development. Through an examination of all the contexts in which the two terms 'thesmos' and 'nomos', and some of their cognates, are found before the end of the fifth century, the conclusion is reached that the adoption of 'nomos' as the official term for 'statute' must be related to the democratic reforms enacted in Athens by Cleisthenes in 507-506 B.C. 50/-

On Greek Margins

C. M. BOWRA

Sir Maurice Bowra has collected twenty of his papers on Greek poetry. Starting with two on Homeric epithets, he discusses special points in Archilochus, Stesichorus, Theognis, and Xenophanes, reconsiders two unusual pieces by Euripides and Aristophanes, the stories of Orpheus and Eurydice, and of Arion and the Dolphin, the alleged oracle given to Julian, some lines of Palladas, and such oddities as Melinno's Hymn to Rome and the Cretan Hymn of the Curetes. Frontispiece 60/-

Essays in Greek Philosophy

RICHARD ROBINSON

This collection consists of seven papers in ancient philosophy. The first of these papers, 'Analysis in Greek Geometry', is primarily about Greek mathematicians, but it bears on the interpretation of Plato's Divided Line. The next five essays are directly about Plato, and have been reprinted very nearly as originally published in various journals between 1936 and 1956. The seventh and last essay, which concerns Aristotle's doctrine of incontinence, was first written and published in French, and is presented here in an English translation. 30/-

The Catalogue of the Ships in Homer's Iliad

R. HOPE SIMPSON
and J. F. LAZENBY

The authors examine each place listed in the Catalogue of the Ships, with reference to its location and the evidence for its occupation in prehistoric times. They also examine the extent to which the Homeric poems embody Mycenaean tradition, and suggest that some elements usually regarded as post-Mycenaean may go back to the earlier period. 7 maps. 12 half-tone plates 60/-

The Green Cabinet

Theocritus and the European Pastoral Lyric

By THOMAS G. ROSENMEYER

This study suggests that we look on Theocritus as if he were a fellow worker of Virgil, not a source. The object of the study is two-fold: to say something about the special qualities of Theocritus' pastoral poetry; and to find out to what extent these qualities are characteristic of the whole genre.

Military Theory and Practice in the Age of Xenophon

By J. K. ANDERSON

This book examines the equipment, drill and tactical handling of Greek heavy infantry in the Classical period in more detail than any previous work written in English. It reviews the conclusions of earlier French and German studies of these topics.

THE GREEK CHORUS

T. B. L. Webster

Professor Webster traces the history of the Greek chorus, in particular the dance, from pre-Greek times to the Hellenistic age. He describes the visual appearance on vases and reliefs and, with reference to literary sources, discusses the development of the metre which provided the rhythm for words, music and dance.

PEOPLE AND THEMES IN HOMER'S 'ODYSSEY'

Agathe Thornton

Professor Thornton has given a close reading to 'The Odyssey' pursuing two main themes in particular. The first is concerned with the way in which certain themes are used in the composition of the poem; the second, which arises from the dramatic quality of the work, assesses the main characters and their impact upon one another.

LANTERN SLIDES

The Slides Collection contains 3500 coloured slides (2" × 2") covering a wide variety of subjects, including sites on the Greek mainland, the Greek islands, Rome, Italy and the Roman Empire. Etruscan tomb paintings, Roman frescoes and mosaics and Greek vases; objects from the Greek and Roman Life room of the British Museum are well represented. Coloured sets (2" × 2") are also available, with notes, on the Athenian Agora, Athens, Pompeii, Lerna, Greek Papyri, Greek Gods and Heroes, Sicily and Magna Graecia, Art in Roman Britain, Classical Costume and the Roman Army in Britain. Coloured film-strips of the last 3 sets are also available. There is a 2" × 2" black and white set on Greek and Roman Architecture.

The collection of 3¼" × 3¼" black and white slides, numbering 10,000, covers a similarly wide range of subjects, and there are about 40 sets of slides on specific subjects.

A catalogue of coloured slides is available at 8s. 6d. a copy.

Slides may be hired by members of each Society at a charge of 10s. a set or 4d. each for individual slides, plus postage.

Copies of coloured slides may be bought for 5s. each.

The annual subscription to each Society is £3. SCHOOLS ARE ELIGIBLE FOR MEMBERSHIP. For particulars apply to the Secretary of either Society at 31–34 Gordon Square, London, W.C.1.
