WORLD POLITICS
INAUGURATES ITS OWN HOME PAGE

The World Politics home page contains tables of contents and abstracts of articles published in recent issues. In addition, it contains a form-based method that will allow visitors to comment on articles. Subsequent visitors will be able to read these comments and respond accordingly. In this way, the editors hope to promote discussion and debate about critical issues in international relations and comparative politics.

Comparative Politics

Editor-in-Chief: Dankwart A. Rustow
(City University of New York)

Comparative Politics is an international journal containing articles devoted to comparative analysis of political institutions and behavior. Articles range from political patterns of emerging nations to contrasts in the structure of established societies. Comparative Politics communicates new ideas and research findings to social scientists, scholars, and students. The journal is indispensable to experts in research organizations, foundations, consulates, and embassies throughout the world.

The United Nations and the Iraq-Kuwait Conflict, 1990-1996

The response of the United Nations and its Member States to the August 1990 invasion of Kuwait by Iraq highlighted the extraordinary strengths of the Organization and its capacity to act decisively, when consensus exists, as a force for international peace and security. The United Nations and the Iraq-Kuwait Conflict, 1990-1996 is a comprehensive account of the Organization's multifaceted efforts to reverse Iraq's aggression, to restore the sovereignty of Kuwait, to promote – through innovative mechanisms and a sustained involvement – long-term peace and stability in the region and to deal with a complex humanitarian emergency.

Problems of Democratic Transition and Consolidation

SOUTHERN EUROPE, SOUTH AMERICA, AND POST-COMMUNIST EUROPE

Juan J. Linz and Alfred Stepan

"This is an important volume by two major scholars on a central topic—one of broad interest to people in comparative politics, to those interested in democracy, and to regional specialists on Southern Latin America and on Central and Eastern Europe. The book will unquestionably be a major contribution to the literature on constructing democratic governance."—Abraham F. Lowenthal, University of Southern California

$18.95 paperback

Class and Conservative Parties

ARGENTINA IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE

Edward Gibson

"This is a first-rate book. It makes a number of contributions to the study of Argentine politics and to comparative work on Latin America. It offers fresh historical perspective on the failure of democracy to take root in Argentina, and provides important new material on the challenges faced by conservative politicians in aggregating diverse sectors of their 'core constituency' while reorienting their political activity toward electoral politics."—Robert Kaufman, Rutgers University

Democratizing Mexico

PUBLIC OPINION AND ELECTORAL CHOICES

Jorge I. Domínguez and James A. McCann

"Democratizing Mexico makes a very important contribution to the study of public opinion and elections in Mexico. No other analysis of parties and elections makes such effective use of national opinion polls. It is a fine addition to the growing literature on electoral participation in Latin America."—Kevin Middlebrook, Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies, University of California, San Diego

Beyond Sovereignty

COLLECTIVELY DEFENDING DEMOCRACY IN THE AMERICAS

edited by Tom Farer

How can external actors—governments, regional organizations, the United Nations, financial institutions, non-governmental organizations—affect the process of democratic transition and consolidation? Leading scholars and policy experts examine the experiences of a variety of Latin American nations.

The Art of Bargaining

RICHARD NED LEBOW

Richard Ned Lebow draws on his years of experience with the United States government, NATO, and numerous European and American businesses to explain the principles of negotiation—from buying a car to planning business mergers to signing an international treaty. Unlike studies that examine only what is said and done at the negotiation table, The Art of Bargaining looks at the context in which negotiation takes place—and shows why some of the most critical decisions about bargaining are made even before the parties sit down to talk.

“This is a sophisticated, powerful book with useful ideas. The examples are entertaining in their own right and bring the book to life. Lebow’s close contact with the international examples should intrigue and interest many readers looking for the inside line on well-known international events.”

—Peter Carnevale, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

Coping with Conflict after the Cold War

EDITED BY EDWARD A. KOLODZIEJ AND ROGER E. KANET

This volume provides answers to the question of how the international community might cope with armed conflict after the Cold War. It identifies key actors—states and international organizations—that have the resources and (potentially) the will to address the problems of continuing violence and enduring conflicts. The book also evaluates the strategies that might be adopted by these actors, unilaterally or cooperatively, to ease or end such armed struggles. Contributors are Arthur J. Alexander, Mohammed Ayoob, Nicole Ball, Paul F. Diehl, Roger E. Kanet, Samuel S. Kim, Edward A. Kolodziej, Edward J. Laurence, David F. Linowes, Patrick M. Morgan, Jack Snyder, Janice Gross Stein, and I. William Zartman.

Ben-Gurion's Spy The Story of the Political Scandal That Shaped Modern Israel Shabtai Teveth

"Teveth had access to all the secret files which were unavailable in earlier years and he has interviewed at length all of the leading actors. . . . No one has ever had remotely as much access and, on the other hand, sufficient time has now passed as to make a judicious treatment possible. In other words, there could be no better book on the subject."

The Cold War on the Periphery The United States, India, and Pakistan Robert J. McMahon

"The author, an American historian who has combed the archives, argues that the U.S. alliance with Pakistan in 1945 was a monumental strategic blunder that increased Indo-Pakistani hostility, undermined regional stability, and led India to seek closer ties with the Soviet Union.... This study is a model of its kind and, whether one accepts the conclusions or not, it sheds a good deal of light on center-periphery relations during the Cold War."

Pacific Passage The Study of American-East Asian Relations on the Eve of the Twenty-First Century Edited by Warren I. Cohen

"An essential volume for general public and scholars alike, Pacific Passage marks the third decade in which the field of U.S.-East Asian relations has critically examined itself. It makes a major historiographic contribution, opening new areas of study and examining old ones in the light of new research."

Government and Society in Malaysia

HAROLD CROUCH

"Crouch has drawn effectively on his intimate knowledge of the country . . . to develop the controversial thesis that while civil society has expanded with economic development, as predicted by conventional political development theory, authoritarianism has been enhanced by executive ascendance in contemporary Malaysia."—K. Restrained Trade

Cartels in Japan's Basic Materials Industries

MARK TILTON

"This fine book contributes to debates over the links between politics and economics in Japan. Restrained Trade offers much new information and insight into Japan's basic materials industries, and into the interactions among government, market, and industrial groups. The analyses of the specific industries, especially cement and petrochemicals, are well beyond any others I know."—T. J. PEMPEL, University of Washington, Seattle. $29.95

CORNELL STUDIES IN SECURITY AFFAIRS

Cooperation under Fire

Anglo-German Restraint during World War II

JEFFREY W. LEGRO

Legro here offers a new understanding of the dynamics of World War II and the sources of international cooperation. "A careful, systematic investigation that comes up with some fascinating and sometimes quite surprising conclusions. The book is a fine read, well-considered, and a real contribution."—JOHN MUELLER, author of Retreat from Doomsday: The Obsolescence of Major War. $35.00

Reputation and International Politics

JONATHAN MERCER

Mercer examines reputation formation in a series of crises before World War I. He tests competing arguments, one from deterrence theory, the other from social psychology, to see which better predicts and explains how reputations form. He extends his findings to address contemporary crises such as the Gulf War, and considers how culture, gender, and nuclear weapons effect reputation.

Revolution and War

STEPHEN M. WALT

"The sweep and sustained argumentation of Revolution and War are deployed to transform our understanding of realism and the causes of war. Breaking with the usual divide between domestic and international politics, the book's nuanced historical cases marshal evidence for a daring argument about how within-state developments affect the system of states."

SURVIVAL:

The IISS Quarterly

Published for the IISS
by Oxford University Press

The need for forward-looking analysis is essential during times of rapid political change. Survival is a leading voice in the field of strategic studies, featuring original research and innovative assessments of current international problems.

"Survival is the indispensable journal of record and analysis concerning security policy issues." Samuel P. Huntington, Harvard University

With NATO troops deploying to Bosnia, the EU preparing its 1996 Inter-governmental Conference and France rejoining NATO bodies, the Spring 1996 issue of Survival looks at the challenges and issues facing a partnership in transition. In this special issue, leading academics and practitioners assess European security and transatlantic relations at this crucial turning-point.

Highlights include:

- Nicole Gnesotto on Common European Defence and Transatlantic Relations
- Philip Zelikow on The Masque of Institutions
- Robert Grant on France's New Relationship with NATO
- Philip H. Gordon on Recasting the Atlantic Alliance
- Charles Barry on Combined Joint Task Forces
- Review essays by Charles Kupchan and Gideon Rose

The Summer 1996 issue of Survival will include several articles on Far Eastern and Japanese security issues, plus the regular features:

- Book Reviews: The latest and important titles reviewed each quarter.
- Letters to the Editor: Stimulating debate on articles from previous issues.
