THE YEAR BOOK OF WORLD AFFAIRS 1964

The annual collection of articles, book reviews and reports on world affairs published under the auspices of the London Institute of World Affairs. It is safe to say that no student of developments in the international scene could consider himself up to date unless he has read this book and its predecessors. The articles come from experts all over the world, and the survey of the year's literature is particularly valuable.

Edited by G. W. Keeton and Georg Schwarzenberger

THE SOURCES OF THE LAW OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE

With special reference to East-West Trade

This is a collection of reports by leading experts in their particular fields which formed the basis of a Colloquium held at King's College, London, in September 1962. Each one has, however, been annotated by the Editor in order to bring the work up to date to January 1, 1964.

Edited by Clive M. Schmitthoff,

Principal Lecturer in Law, The City of London College

THE CHANGING STRUCTURE OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

This is a penetrating analysis of the way international law has been developing through the intensification of inter-governmental relations necessitated by the many new international institutions which have been established in recent years, and by the numerous economic and military treaties that have been negotiated.

Professor of International Law, Columbia University

CURRENT LEGAL PROBLEMS 1964

Each year the Faculty of Laws at University College, London, arranges for a series of lectures to be delivered on subjects and problems of topical interest. These lectures have always been by leading thinkers and have maintained a very high standard of erudition. This is a collection of the lectures delivered during 1963-64.

A History of English Law

Volume XIV

SIR WILLIAM HOLDSWORTH

Edited by

Professor A. L. Goodhart, K.B.E., Q.C., D.C.L., LL.D.

Professor H. G. Hanbury, Q.C., D.C.L.

Covering English legal history from the Anglo-Saxons to the 19th century Judicature Acts, Sir William Holdsworth's monumental history was interrupted in 1945 at Volume XII by the author's death. Succeeding volumes, first based on Holdsworth's typescript, and later, with much more labour, on manuscript notes, have been edited by Professors A. L. Goodhart and H. G. Hanbury.

Volume XIV continues Book V: The Centuries of Settlement and Reform, and forms the beginning of Chapter V which covers the period from the Reform Act, 1832, to the Acts of 1873–1875.

This volume is of particular interest to the historian as well as the lawyer. Holdsworth's review, in the Introduction, of the interactions between Peel and Melbourne and later Disraeli and Gladstone is full of political insight. His survey of the powers of Parliament, Cabinet, the Courts, and local government, illustrated by reference to events in the period under discussion, and followed by a wide ranging discussion of the constitutions and status of the emerging Commonwealth in this period, is invaluable.

For the lawyer this volume carries one stage further Holdsworth's unique contribution to the task of recording the development of the English legal system, and analysing this for teaching, reference and research. Volume XIV contains Holdsworth's exposition on the entire field of public law from Bentham and the increasing importance of central Government, through the residual powers of the Crown, to a study of the growth and evolution of the statutory powers of the executive.
