LEARNING & TEACHING

The International Journal of Higher Education in the Social Sciences

Editors: Penny Welch, Humanities, Languages and Social Sciences, University of Wolverhampton

Susan Wright, Danish School of Education, University of Århus

Learning and Teaching (LATISS) is a peer-reviewed journal that uses the social sciences to reflect critically on learning and teaching in the changing context of higher education.

The journal invites students and staff to explore their education practices in the light of changes in their institutions, national higher education policies, the strategies of international agencies, and developments associated with the so-called international knowledge economy.

The disciplines covered include politics and international relations, anthropology, sociology, criminology, social policy, cultural studies, and educational studies. Recent topics include curriculum innovation, students' academic writing, Ph.D. research ethics, neo-liberalism and academic identity, and marketization of higher education. The readership spans practitioners, researchers, and students. It includes undergraduates and postgraduates interested in analyzing their experience at university, newly appointed staff taking a qualification in learning and teaching, staff members of learning and teaching units, experienced teachers in higher education, and researchers on university reform.
