Literature and Psychoanalysis

DIFFERENCE AND PATHOLOGY Stereotypes of Sexuality, Race, and Madness

By SANDER L. GILMAN. Showing how racial and other stereotypes permeate Western literature, fine arts, popular culture, and science and medicine from the Middle Ages to the present, Gilman illuminates the web of cultural conventions that has both affected human perceptions and influenced human actions. 17 illustrations.
$12.95 paper; $34.95 cloth

THE ENIGMA OF WOMAN Woman in Freud's Writings

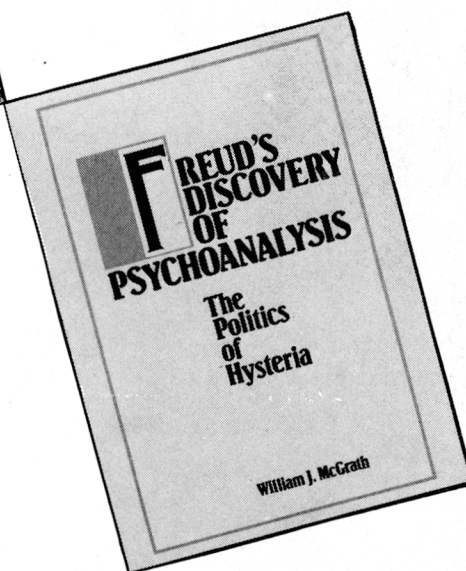

By SARAH KOFMAN. Translated from the French by Catherine Porter. "A superb work, clear and lively, on Freud's account of women and feminine sexuality. Unlike some feminists who simply attack Freud for his sexist views, she reads his texts carefully, trusting them to reveal his paradoxical concepts and impositions."—Jonathan Culler, Cornell University.
$12.95 paper; $35.00 cloth

READING LACAN

By JANE GALLOP. The influence of the French psychoanalyst Jacques Lacan has extended into nearly every field of the humanities and social sciences. In her sequel to The Daughter's Seduction ($9.95, paper), Jane Gallop offers a provocative new reading of Lacan based on his own theories of language. $19.95

GENIUS AND MONOLOGUE

By KEN FRIEDEN. "This is a subtle and rich study of a significant issue, not just for literary analysis, but for our understanding of Western culture."—Donald G. Marshall, University of Iowa. Retracing the development of major theories of genius in ancient and modern philosophy, Frieden sheds light on the ways in which individuality finds expression in literature. $19.95

FREUD'S DISCOVERY OF PSYCHOANALYSIS The Politics of Hysteria
