

Arthur Goddard, Simon Fraser University, spent fall semester as visiting associate professor in the Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University.

Gerald Hanson, Northern Arizona University, is spending a sabbatical year as a visiting scholar in the Department of Political Science, Brigham Young University.

Mary D. Herzik, visiting instructor, Texas A&M University.

Chun-tu Hsueh, University of Maryland, has been invited to lecture at Wuhan and other leading universities in China in March. He will be professor of government at Harvard University Summer School, 1984.

Robert S. Jordan, University of New Orleans, was visiting professor at Brigham Young University in 1983.

Andre Liebich is spending the year as a visiting scholar at the Hoover Institution doing archival research under a grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

Former Congressman Richardson Preyer (D-N.C., 1969-1981) served as a visiting fellow at the State University of New York, Plattsburgh, for a week in October 1983. In Plattsburgh, Mr. Preyer presented public lectures and classes on United States national politics, with an emphasis on congressional ethics and political assassinations. His residency was sponsored by the Association of Former Members of Congress, Washington, D.C. and by the SUNY College at Plattsburgh. The visit was arranged by former Congresswoman Martha Keys, director of educational programs for the association, and by Professor Harvey L. Schantz of the college.

Dennis L. Thompson served as visiting scholar in the Department of Politics, Edinburgh University, Edinburgh, Scotland, during the academic year 1982-83.

F. LaMond Tullis is visiting fellow, Institute for Development Studies, University of Sussex, Brighton, England, and visiting scholar, Department of Political Science, London School of Economics, for the year 1983-84.

Award Recipients

Arkansas Political Science Association

The award for the best student paper at the 1983 Arkansas Political Science Association has gone to Lance Thornton, M.P.A. graduate student at the University of Arkansas, Little Rock. The title of the paper is "The Supreme Court and the American Public—An Analysis."

American Fulbright Scholars 1983-84

The following political scientists have been awarded Fulbright grants to lecture, carry out research, or study abroad:

Joan B. Aron, Office of Policy Analysis, Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Lecturing in public policy/energy policy: Haifa University, Haifa, Israel. 5 months, 1/84-5/84.

James F. Barnes, associate professor of political science, Ohio University. Lecturing in political science: Omar Bongo University, Libreville, Gabon. 10 months, 9/83-6/84.

Peter Dennis Bathory, associate professor of political science, Rutgers, The State University. Lecturing in political science: University of Yaounde, Cameroon. 3 months, 10/83-12/83.

Charles E. Butterworth, associate professor of government, University of Maryland. Research in Aristotle's sophistry/rhetoric/poetics: Cairo University, Cairo, Egypt. 3 months, 7/83-10/83 (Islamic civilization project).

Gerald E. Caiden, professor of public administration, University of Southern California, Los Angeles. Lecturing and research in public administration: Yonsei University, Seoul, Korea. 3 months, 3/84-5/84.

Elsa M. Chaney of Aurora Associates, Inc. has been awarded a Fulbright grant to conduct research in rural development for six months at the Caribbean Food and Nutrition Institute in Jamaica.

Elsa M. Chaney, specialist in political science, Aurora Associates, Inc., Washington, D.C. Research in rural development: Caribbean Food and Nutrition Institute, Jamaica. 6 months, 11/83-5/84.

Ronald H. Chilcote, professor of political science, University of California, Riverside. Lecturing in comparative politics: Federal University of Campinas, Campinas, Sao Paulo, Brazil; Federal University of Ceara, Benfica, Ceara, Brazil. 6 months, 7/83-11/84.

George F. Cole, professor of political science, University of Connecticut, Storrs. Research in administration of criminal courts of justice in Croatia: University of Zagreb, Yugoslavia. 4 months, 1/84-4/84.

Alfred G. Cuzan, assistant professor of political science, University of West Florida. Lecturing in political science: University of Belgrano, Argentina. 1 month, 7/83-8/83.

Moshe M. Czudnowski, professor of political science, Northern Illinois University. Lecturing in social science research: National Taiwan University, Taipei, Taiwan. 10 months, 8/83-7/84.

Dennis L. Dresang, director, Center for Public Policy, University of Wisconsin-Madison. Research in public administration and personnel management: Seoul National University, Seoul, Korea. 3 months, 7/83-9/83.

Douglas Durasorf, associate professor of history, Oral Roberts University. Research in Swedish and German co-determination at work: Sweden, Germany, W. European Research Project. 6 months, 8/83-6/84.

Milton J. Esman, professor of government, Cornell University. Lecturing in political science: Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Israel. 9 months, 9/83-6/84.

Jeff Fishel, professor of government, The American University. Research in political science: University of Sydney, Australia. 6 months, 7/83-1/84.

Bette D. Fox, professor of police administration, Eastern Kentucky University. Research in political science: University of Sofia, Bulgaria. 5 months, 1/84-6/84.

Beverly C. Grier, political scientist, Philadelphia, PA. Lecturing in political science: Universite de Niamey, Niamey, Niger. 9 months, 11/83-8/84.

Harold Guetzkow, professor of political science, Northwestern University. Research in political science: various institutions, Venezuela. 3 months, 4/83-8/83.

Klaus H. Heberle, professor of political science, Eastern Kentucky University. Lecturing in political science: University of Kiel, West Germany. 10 months, 9/83-7/84.

Stanley H. Hoffmann, professor of political science, Harvard University. Lecturing in political science: School of Social Sciences, Paris, France. 9 months, 10/83-7/84.

Robert C. Horn, professor of political science, California State University, Northridge. Lecturing in U.S. foreign policy: University of Malaya, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia; University Kebangsaan, Selangor, Malaysia. 9 months, 7/83-5/84.

Mack H. Jones, professor of political science, Atlanta University. Lecturing in political science: Ahmadu Bello University, Zaire, Nigeria. 10 months, 9/83-6/84.

Nelson M. Kasfir, associate professor of government, Dartmouth College. Research in government: Makerere University, Kampala, Uganda. 6 months, 9/83-3/84 (African research project).

Charles H. Kennedy, assistant professor of government, Bowdoin College. Research in political science: Islamic University, Islamabad, Pakistan. 9 months, 9/83-6/84.

Michael A. Krasner, associate professor of political science at Queens College, City University of New York. Lecturing in political science at Aarhus University, Denmark. 4 months, 9/83-1/84.

Barbara Caroline Lewis, associate professor of political science, Rutgers, The State University, New Brunswick. Lecturing in African political institutions: University of Yaounde, Cameroon. 9 months, 9/83-5/84.

Shelby Lewis, professor of political science, Atlanta University. Lecturing in women's studies: National University of Lesotho, Roma, Lesotho. 10 months, 8/83-5/84.

Alvin Magid, associate professor of political science, SUNY at Albany. Research in organizational role conflict in Yugoslavian industrial enterprises: University of Belgrade, Yugoslavia. 9 months, 10/83-6/84.

Ross Marlay, associate professor of political science, Arkansas State University. Lecturing in U.S. foreign policy: Silliman University, Dumaguete City, Philippines. 10 months, 11/83-8/84.

John D. Martz, professor of political science, Pennsylvania State University. Research in politics of Ecuadorean petroleum policy: various institutions, Ecuador. 6 months, 1/84-6/84.

Arthur H. Miller, associate professor of political science, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Lecturing in political sociology: University of Trondheim, Norway. 12 months. 8/83-8/84.

James K. Morrison, associate professor of political science, University of Utah. Lecturing in political science: Zhongshan University, Guangzhou, China. 12 months, 8/83-8/84.

Miner C. Paddock, assistant professor of community affairs, Indiana University of Pennsylvania. Lecturing in public administration: Poona University, Ganeshkhind, Poona, India. 2 months, 10/83-11/83.

Earl F. Picard, assistant professor of political science, Atlanta University. Lecturing in comparative politics: National University of Lesotho, Roma, Lesotho. 10 months, 8/83-5/84.

Christopher H. Pyle, associate professor of politics, Mount Holyoke College. Lecturing in American politics: University College, Dublin, Ireland. 4 months, 1/84-4/84.

Reid R. Reading, assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Pittsburgh. Lecturing in political science: Federal University of Ceara, Fortaleza, Brazil. 5 months, 7/83-12/83.

Elsbeth Rostow, dean, School of Public Affairs, University of Texas at Austin. Lecturing in public affairs and government: various institutions, India. 3 weeks, 10/83.

Richard J. Samuels, assistant professor of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Research in energy policy: Institute for Energy Economics, Japan. 9 months, 9/83-6/84.

Brian H. Smith, assistant professor of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Research in analysis of church organizations: University of Chile, Santiago, Chile. 3 months, 12/83-2/84.

Dorothy M. Stetson, associate professor of political science, Florida Atlantic University. Research in political science: National Foundation of Political Science, France. 12 months, 9/83-9/84.

Michael S. Stohl, associate professor of political science, Purdue University. Lecturing in political science: University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand. 6 months, 5/83-11/83.

Joseph S. Szyliowicz, professor of political science, University of Denver. Research in political science: at large, Turkey. 4 months, 5/83-9/83.

People in Political Science

Robert S. Thompson, associate professor of government, University of South Carolina. Lecturing in political science: Beijing University, Beijing, China. 5 months, 8/83-1/84.

William S. Turley, professor of political science, Southern Illinois University. Lecturing in political science: Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand. 12 months, 6/83-6/84.

Leonard B. Weinberg, professor of political science, University of Nevada. Research in political science: various institutions, Italy. 6 months.

Sidney Weintraub, professor of economics, University of Texas at Austin. Research in economic and foreign policy: University College, Cork, Ireland. 2 months, 6/83-8/83.

James W. White, professor of political science, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Research in Japanese politics, 1590-1878: Keio University, Tokyo, Japan. 9 months, 9/83-6/84.

Fulbright-Hays Scholars

Following are the names of U.S. graduate students in political science who have received Fulbright-Hays awards for 1983-84, with their U.S. institutions and the countries in which they will study. The awards are administered by the Institute of International Education.

Douglas Baker, University of Connecticut: Brazil.

John Brown, University of Delaware: West Germany.

Richard Deeg, Macalester College: West Germany.

Stuart Essig, Princeton University: Mexico.

Rebecca Evans, Purdue University: West Germany.

Karen Fischer, Southwest Texas State University: West Germany.

David Friedman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology: Japan.

Janet Hart, Cornell University: Greece.

Carmen M. Kerstiens, Smith College: United Kingdom.

Joseph Klesner, Massachusetts Institute of Technology: Mexico.

Stephen McFarland, Monterey Institute of International Studies: Finland.

Janet Milkman, Wesleyan University: West Germany.

Gregory Nowell, Massachusetts Institute of Technology: France.

Jennifer Nupp, Brown University: West Germany.

John Pomfret, Stanford University: Singapore.

John Rader, University of Kansas: West Germany.

Fred Reinke, St. Olaf College: West Germany.

Francis Schneider, Temple University: Uruguay.

Peter J. Schoppert, Dartmouth College: Singapore.

Sven Steinmo, University of California at Berkeley: Sweden.

Michael D. Swaine, Harvard University: Japan.

Rebecca Taggart, Colorado College: West Germany.

Monica Treitmeier, Fordham University: West Germany.

Sergio Troncoso, Harvard University: Mexico.

Scott Wright, St. Mary's College: Panama.

Hubert H. Humphrey Award

James Bjorkman and Rockwell Schultz of the University of Wisconsin have won the Hubert H. Humphrey Award for the outstanding article in volume four of the Journal of Health and Human Resources Administration. Their article is titled, "On the Implementation of Change in National Health Delivery Systems: A Model and an Application."

Serving on the Humphrey Award Committee were: James J. Glass, North Texas State University, chair; Mark Burns, Auburn University; Mark Daniels, University of Connecticut; and David Swain, Edward Waters College. □

Mark H. Ingraham Prize

Richard Franklin Bensei, University of Texas at Dallas, has been awarded the 1983 Mark H. Ingraham Prize for his book, Sectionalism and American Political Development, 1880-1980. The prize includes a $1,500 cash award for the University of Wisconsin Press for advertising and promotion and a subsidy for reducing the retail price of the book.

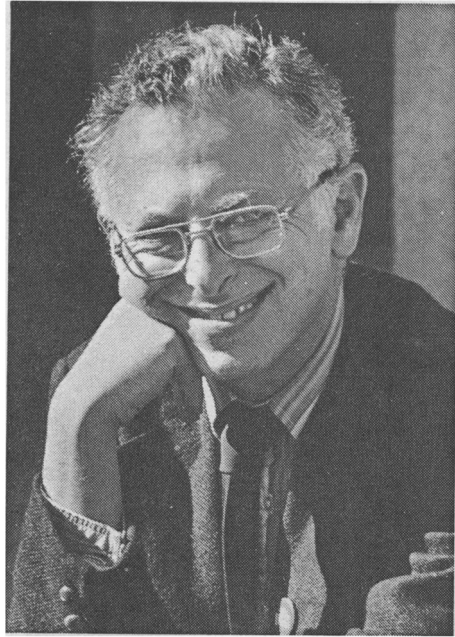

National Academy of Public Administration Book Award

Fred I. Greenstein, professor of politics at Princeton University, received the Louis Brownlow Book Award of the National Academy of Public Administration for his best seller, The Hidden-Hand Presidency: Eisenhower as Leader, published November 15, 1982, by Basic Books.

The Louis Brownlow Award is presented annually to honor outstanding contributions to the literature of public administration. Forty-five books were nominated this year for the award. Entries were judged for new insights, fresh analysis and original ideas, as well as factual accuracy, analytical thinking and readable style.

Policy Studies Organization Awards

The Policy Studies Organization (PSO) is proud to announce the winners of the first annual PSO awards. Yehezkel Dror is the recipient of the Harold Lasswell Award for outstanding scholarship in contributing to the understanding of the substance or process of public policy. Ralph Huitt is the recipient of the Hubert Humphrey Award for being an outstanding public policy practitioner. Duncan MacRae is the recipient of the Donald Campbell Award for being an outstanding methodological innovator in public policy studies. All three received appropriate plaques at the first annual PSO Awards luncheon. The Awards Committee consisted of Aaron Wildavsky (as chair), Walter Beach, and Dennis Palumbo. They were appointed by Robert Lineberry in his role as the previous PSO president.

Fred I. Greenstein of Princeton University has been given the Louis Brownlow Book Award for his book, The Hidden-Hand Presidency: Eisenhower as Leader.

Nominations for next year's recipients are welcomed by the new 1984 PSO Awards Committee. It consists of Carol Weiss (as chair), Yehezkel Dror, and Helen Ingram. They were appointed by Aaron Wildavsky in his PSO presidential role. Other PSO awards that have now been established are the annual PSO Dissertation Award, the PSO Paper Award, and the PSO Book Award for an outstanding dissertation, paper, and book in policy studies, respectively. PSO also gives awards to undergraduate and graduate students by way of certificates of membership in Pi Sigma Sigma which is the Policy Studies Honor Society. It now has many chapters across the country. Nominations can be sent for any of these awards to the Policy Studies Organization, 361 Lincoln Hall, University of Illinois, Urbana, IL 61801.

People in Political Science

E. D. Walker Centennial Fellowship

Nathan Goldman, assistant professor at the University of Texas at Austin, has received the E. D. Walker Centennial Fellowship from the Institute for Constructive Capitalism. While on leave, he will be conducting research on the law and policy of space commercialization.

Western Europe Fellows

The following political scientists have been awarded International Research Fellowships for 1983-84 by the Social Sci-

Colleen A. Dunlavy, Ph.D. candidate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been awarded an International Research Fellowship by the Social Science Research Council and the American Council of Learned Societies.

Research Council-American Council of Learned Societies:

Colleen A. Dunlavy, Ph.D. candidate in political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for research in West Germany on a comparative study of the railroad in Prussia and the United States.

Hudson C. Meadwell, Ph.D. candidate in political science, Duke University, for research in Canada and France on forms of first-world cultural mobilization (Quebec and Brittany, 1870-1970).

Sven H. Steinmo, Ph.D. candidate in political science, University of California, Berkeley, for research in the United Kingdom on the political economy of corporate taxation. □

Leslie T. Wilkins Award

Roy Fleming, Department of Political Science, Wayne State University, has received the Leslie T. Wilkins Award for his book, Punishment Before Trial. The award, for the best criminal justice research book of 1982, was presented by Hindelang Criminal Justice Research Center of the State University of New York.

National Academy of Public Administration

The following political scientists were elected in 1983 for membership in the National Academy of Public Administration:

William O. Farber, professor emeritus of political science, University of South Dakota; honorary member.

Louis Gawthrop, professor of public and environmental affairs, Indiana University-Bloomington; active member.

Charles Howard Levine, The Brookings Institution, formerly Edwin O. Stene Distinguished Professor of Public Administration, University of Kansas; active member.

The 24 new members were elected by secret ballot cast by the Academy's 308 active and emeritus members.

Lederle Graduate Research Center

John W. Lederle, president and professor emeritus, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, was recently honored at the convocation of the Lederle Graduate Research Center named in his honor. Dr. Lederle served as president of the University from 1960 to 1970 and as Joseph B. Ely Professor of Government from 1970-1982 when he retired. He has been an APSA member for more than 40 years.

Southern Political Science Association Awards

Michael X. Delli Carpini of Rutgers University was awarded the Pi Sigma Alpha Award for the best paper presented at the 1982 annual meeting of the Southern Political Science Association for his manuscript, "Scooping the Voters? The Consequences of NBC's Early Call of the 1980 Presidential Election."

Thomas G. Walker of Emory University was given the Scott Foresman Publishers Award for the best paper on women and the political process presented at the 1982 annual meeting for his article, "Affirmative Action in Federal Judicial Selection: Policy and Process Ramifications." Both awards were announced at the Southern meeting in November.

In Memoriam

Andrew Thomas Cowart

Andrew Thomas Cowart, chairman and professor of political science at the State University of New York, Stony Brook, died October 14, 1983, at the age of 38, after an illness of several months. He joined the faculty at Stony Brook in 1979 and from 1982 until a few months before he died he had served as chairman.

The Lederle Graduate Research Center has been named in honor of John W. Lederle, past president and professor emeritus of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Born in Dublin, Georgia, in 1945, he earned his B.A. and M.A. in political science at the University of Georgia. From Georgia, he went on to study at the University of Michigan, from which he received a Ph.D. in 1971. He began his academic career as an Amanuensis at the University of Oslo, Norway, where, apart from his research, he taught methods, public policy, and budgeting. In 1974, he moved on to the University of Iowa, first as an assistant professor (1974-1976) and then as an associate professor (1976-1978). There, in addition to his teaching and research on public policy and methodology, he served as associate director (1975-1978) of the Laboratory for Political Research.

In his relatively short life as a political scientist, Andy Cowart published articles on elections, American and Western European public policies, and budgetary politics in Oslo and the United States in