Christians still have a hard time accepting "political Zionism." ISAAC ROTTENBERG explains why there is, but should not be, religious resistance to connecting Divine purpose with the State of Israel

... Almost ten years later and Pinochet's Chile is clearly no closer to civilian democratic rule, VED NANDA argues ... One year later and it is possible to analyze the stunning diversity of responses to Solzhenitsyn's address at Harvard. FRANCIS J. MURPHY does that ...

In "Law and the Rightness (and Wrongness) of Things" RICHARD JOHN NEUHAUS contends that, in view of the bankruptcy of positivism, it is time to reconnect legal theory to moral reflection ... RALPH BUULTJENS puts recent and startling changes in China's foreign and domestic policies into "Maoist" perspective ... James Cone, premier proponent of "black theology," offers a searching and lively examination of black American attitudes toward African religion and culture.
