Minding Minors Wandering the Web: Regulating Online Child Safety

Edited by

Simone van der Hof, Bibi van den Berg and Bart Schermer

Ensuring online safety has become a topic on the regulatory agenda in many Western societies. However, regulating for online safety is far from easy, due to the wide variety of national and international, private and public actors and stakeholders that are involved. When regulating online risks for children it is important to strike the right balance between protection against harms on the one hand, and safeguarding their fundamental freedoms and rights on the other. The authors in this book grapple with precisely this theme: striking the right balance between ensuring safety for children on the internet while at the same time enabling them to experiment, to learn, to enrich their lives, to acquire skills and to have fun using this global network. The authors come from various scientific disciplines, ranging from law to social science and from media studies to philosophy, thus presenting both empirical and theoretical/conceptual approaches, and shedding a multi-disciplinary light on the complex topic of regulating online safety for children.

EDITORIAL POLICY & GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

In the tradition of the HOGENDORPcentre, the European Constitutional Law Review (EuConst) follows the classical approach of constitutionalism, to discuss EU law's developments as well as comparative public law of the member states, political and constitutional theory and history. The journal is a platform for scholarly discussion of European constitutional events and evolution. It is open to contributions in this field from any country in the world and from any discipline. These contributions should satisfy as to substance, apart from the common scholarly criteria, two specific conditions, to a) have a distinctly European relevance and b) include a reference to and discussion of legal aspects involved.

Submission of Material

Authors are requested to send their manuscript to the Editorial Office European Constitutional Law Review, c/o HOGENDORPcentre, P.O. Box 1030; NL – 1000 BA Amsterdam, E-mail: EuConst@uva.nl. All submitted materials should be in English. Detailed instructions and style sheet can be found on <<http://journals.cambridge.org/action/displayJournal?jid=ECL>>. Materials may be submitted at any time of the year and, if accepted for publication, will be published at the earliest available opportunity.

Copyright

Copyright is exclusively vested in EuConst and the author(s) jointly. Acceptance of the Board of Editors' offer to publish implies, however, that authors agree to an embargo on publication elsewhere, either in English or another language, for a period of two years following the date of publication in EuConst. The agreement of the Board of Editors will be necessary before the article can be subsequently published elsewhere.

Revision

Articles accepted will be edited, linguistically and substantively, subject to author's approval.
