STANISLAVSKI

AN ACTOR'S HANDBOOK

edited and translated by Elizabeth Reynolds Hapgood

To commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of Stanislavski's birth in 1963, Theatre Arts Books published this alphabetical arrangement of concise statements on aspects of acting and his own method taken from Stanislavski's writings. These definitions of 150 of the important tenets of Stanislavski's teachings run from a few lines to several pages. They cannot replace the full expression of his ideas in his other books, but they will serve to refresh the reader's mind and to pin-point in concise form what he himself wrote of the important facets of his art. "Teachers and students will be indebted to the editor for this important contribution."—Professor Campton Bell, University of Denver. Paperbound. $2.25

AN ACTOR PREPARES

"A profound book . . . on the whole simple and lucid in its expression."—John Mason Brown. $3.95

"Indispensable for the actor, stimulating for the layman."—The Nation. "Translated with brilliance."—Musical America. $3.95

CREATING A ROLE

"For the actor in need of nourishment for his gifts and guidance for his enthusiasm, this book is immeasurably important; for anyone with an interest in the theatre it is terrific entertainment."—Paul Scofield. $4.45

MY LIFE IN ART

"A reminder of verities that stand all but forgotten."—N.Y. Herald Tribune. Illustrated edition. $6.75

THE SEAGULL PRODUCED BY STANISLAVSKI

translated by David Magarshak

"A single and unique source for anyone preparing a production of this play as well as other Chekhov dramas."—Players. $5.50

STANISLAVSKI PRODUCES OTHELLO

translated by Helen Novak

"The constant enrichment, the provocative discussion, the penetrating intuitions [are] characteristic."—Educational Theatre Journal. $5.75

"In the theatre the Othello and the Seagull will probably prove the most useful of all Stanislavski books."—Eric Bentley, New Republic.

books on theatre

ANTON CHEKHOV'S LETTERS on the Short Story, the Drama, and Other Literary Topics, rank among the treasures of world literature. From the thousands which he wrote, Louis S. Friedlander has selected those which deal with the writer's craft, the function of literature, and the problems of publishing and staging. Some are casual, some witty, some hasty jottings. But whether humorous or angry, they reveal Chekhov's thinking on his own art and craft and those of his contemporaries. Grouped by subject matter, they constitute an extraordinary body of critical commentary on literary theory and practice, spiced with brilliance, wit, and the inimitable Chekhov style. Professor Ernest Simmons' 20-page introduction analyzes the various stages of Chekhov's development. $7.50

THE THEATRE OF MARVELS by Marian Hannah Winter is one of the most beautiful theatre books to be published in this country. Nearly 200 half-tone illustrations and eleven four-color process plates present a panorama of the theatre of fantasy, escapism, heroism, and the impossible which our forefathers enjoyed. Here are the miraculous escapes out of dark and deep dungeons, the rescue of innocent maidens from the clutches of inhuman monsters, gun-toting villains, and gravity-defying ballet and circus performances. This is a perfect "gift-book," designed and produced as an art book, with an appeal far beyond the confines of its subject matter. Scheduled for publication October 15, 1964, it is offered at a special pre-publication price of $15.00 up to November 25, 1964, and $17.50 thereafter.

ON PRODUCING SHAKESPEARE by Ronald Watkins deals with the problems of how Shakespeare's plays were produced in his time, and should be produced today. It combines the practical and the scholarly approaches. Mr. Watkins is one of the outstanding Shakespearean directors in England today and his book should be of inestimable value to actors, directors, and readers in Shakespeare on the stage. This second edition includes a new four-page introduction, plus 20 half-tone illustrations of American and Canadian Shakespeare Festival productions. $7.50

CONTINENTAL STAGECRAFT by Kenneth Macgowan and Robert Edmond Jones is the record of a theatrical journey through Europe, during which the authors observed Copeau, Stanislavski, Jessner, Appia, Reinhardt, Craig, and many other masters of the modern theatre in action. First published in 1922, it remains among the most stimulating books in theatrical literature. Forty plates. $8.50
