ERRATA

In the essay by David W. Galenson in the June 1985 issue ("Population Turnover in the British West Indies in the Late Seventeenth Century"), an important equation was printed incorrectly. On page 231, the printed version of the rate of out-migration, m , as dependent on the death rate, d , and the 10-year persistence rate, r , was:

$$m = (1 - d - r)^{1/10}$$

The correct equation is

$$m = 1 - d - r^{1/10}$$

We have received this note from Lee J. Alston and Joseph P. Ferrie: "We are grateful to several scholars for bringing to our attention some chronological errors contained in our article "Labor Costs, Paternalism, and Loyalty in Southern Agriculture: A Constraint on the Growth of the Welfare State" (March 1985). These errors do not affect any of the conclusions we reach in the article. We state (p. 107, second paragraph, line 1) that 'the Committee on Economic Security was set up in 1935.' The correct date is 1934. In several places we erred by dating the passage of the Social Security Act in 1936. The correct date is 1935. As a result of this latter error the following dates cited in the text should be changed to 1935: p. 106, second paragraph, line 8; p. 106, third paragraph, line 6; p. 107, footnote 33; p. 111, heading and second paragraph, line 1; and p. 115, heading and paragraph 4, line 1."

CALLS FOR PAPERS

The Ninth International Economic History Congress in Berne, Switzerland, in August 1986 will include a workshop on "The Economic History of World War II." The workshop is designed to permit presentation of recent scholarship on the economics of the Second World War. Papers on any aspect of that conflict are welcomed. To the extent possible, the papers will be distributed to participants before the congress. Proposals or requests for information should be directed to either of the two conveners of the session: Hugh Rockoff, Economics Department, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey 08904; or Geoffrey T. Mills, School of Business, University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, Iowa 50614.

The Seventh Berkshire Conference on the History of Women will be held on June 19–21, 1987, at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts. While papers on all aspects of women's history are welcomed, the theme for this conference will be "Beyond the Public/Private Dichotomy: Reassessing Women's Place in History." The program committee welcomes proposals for sessions that explore how women's consciousness and political activities reflect the links between the public and private realms. The committee also encourages proposals for panels that compare the experience of women in different countries; and of different races, classes, ages, ethnicities, and sexual identities. The committee strongly suggests submission of proposals for complete sessions involving no more than two papers, one commentator, and one moderator. Individual papers will also be considered. The program committee reserves the right to reassign papers where necessary. Each proposal will be reviewed by two members of the committee. For information on submitting proposals relating to American topics, contact Susan Reverby, Women's Studies Program, Wellesley College, Wellesley, Massachusetts 02181; and for other than American topics, Dorothy O. Helly, Women's Studies Program, Hunter College, 695 Park Avenue, New York, New York 10021. Comparative proposals may be sent to either program chair. The deadline for submission is February 1, 1986.

Senior scholars and young scholars beyond the doctorate may apply for fellowships. Scholars from any nation may apply. In addition to scholars from fields normally associated with the humanities, representatives of the natural and social sciences, the arts, the professions, and public life are also welcome to apply. While pursuing their individual projects, fellows may take part in seminars, lectures, conferences, and public programs. The center admits 35–40 fellows annually. Most fellowships are for the academic year (September through May); a few are available for the fall or spring semester. All applications must be postmarked by October 15, 1985. The Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars seeks from individuals throughout the world outstanding project proposals representing diverse scholarly interests in the humanities and social sciences, and is hospitable to research which falls outside one of its existing geographical or thematic categories. Scholarship undertaken at the center transcends narrow specialties. Eligibility is limited to the postdoctoral level, and normally successful applicants have published one book beyond the Ph.D. dissertation. Fellows devote their full time to research and writing. The length of a fellowship can vary from four months to a year. Within certain limits, the center seeks to enable each fellow to meet the income earned during the preceding year. Deadline for receipt of applications is October 1. For information and application materials contact The Wilson Center, Smithsonian Institution Building, Room 331, Washington, D.C. 20560. BOOKS OF INTEREST

The National Longitudinal Surveys of Labor Market Experience: An Annotated Bibliography of Research, edited by K. Sproat, H. Churchill, and C. Sheets, has been made available by Lexington Books. The National Longitudinal Surveys (NLS) were begun in 1966 and contain economic and social information on various cohorts interviewed over time. They are a major resource for longitudinal and cross-sectional research. Complementing the 373-page annotated list of publications based on the NLS are four indexes of the publications: by subject, by title, by NLS cohort, and by author.

Joseph Alois Schumpeter: A Bibliography, 1905–1984 compiled by Michael I. Stevenson has recently become available from the Greenwood Press in Westport, Connecticut. The volume is organized into sections on works by Schumpeter (books, pamphlets, articles), works on Schumpeter (analytical works, introductory and biographical material), dissertations on Schumpeter, and reviews of Schumpeter's books. Except for the book review section, most of the entries are annotated, and the compiler has provided subject and author indexes and an introduction.

Stevenson states in his introduction that the work is exhaustive but not comprehensive: "Entries chosen were those having a decided bearing on an aspect of Schumpeter's life or work. The numerous restatements . . . of Schumpeterian economics in introductory textbooks are excluded. A special effort was made to identify materials outside economics that build on his thought."
