The Democratic Aspects of Trade Union Recognition

Alan Bogg

This is the first monograph to offer a sustained critical analysis of legal approaches to trade union recognition. In particular, it traces the progressive eclipse of civic republican values in labour law, in preference for a liberal political philosophy. The book articulates and defends a civic republican philosophy in terms of freedom as non-dominance, the intrinsic value of democratic participation through deliberative democracy, and community. This can be contrasted with the rights-based individualism and State neutrality characteristic of the liberal approach. Despite the promise of civic community in the 'Third Way' rhetoric, this book demonstrates that the reality of New Labour's experiment in union recognition was an emphatic reassertion of liberalism in the sphere of workers' collective rights.

The Tort of Conversion

Sarah Green and John Randall QC

This book is the first comprehensive appraisal of the modern tort of Conversion. It offers a coherent and accessible rationalisation of the subject, supported by rigorous analysis of all aspects, from title to sue to the available remedies. The principal thesis of the work is that the development of Conversion has somewhat stagnated, and in consequence the tort has so far been unable to fulfil either its theoretical or its practical potential as a legal device. One of the primary objectives of the book is to present Conversion as a useful and important tort, well suited to the demands of contemporary law and commerce.

Labour Law

Fifth Edition

Simon Deakin and Gillian S Morris

Deakin and Morris: Labour Law, a work increasingly cited as authoritative in the higher appellate courts, provides a comprehensive analysis of current British labour law which explains the role of different legal sources, as well as social and economic policy, in its development. It thus enables readers to obtain a deeper insight into likely future, as well as past, changes in the law. The new edition, while following the broad pattern of previous editions, highlights important new developments in the areas of the contract of employment, discipline and dismissal, discrimination law, EU law, employee representation, human rights, 'work-life balance' policies, trade union law and industrial action law.

The Transformation of Labour Law in Europe

A Comparative Study of 15 Countries 1945-2004

Edited by Bob Hepple and Bruno Veneziani

The labour laws of European democracies all underwent major transformations in the seven decades after the Second World War. This book, a sequel to The Making of Labour Law in Europe (ed. B Hepple; Reprint by Hart Publishing 9781841138206), compares the similarities and differences in the ways in which EU Member States reflected and shaped these general developments, in the context of economic, social and political changes over the period 1945-2004.

The Legal Order of the Oceans

Basic Documents on the Law of the Sea

Edited by A. V. Lowe and S.A.G. Talmon

This compendium of documents brings together, for the first time in an affordable format, the essential documents needed to gain a thorough knowledge of the laws of the sea. There has been a long felt need for such a collection to provide students, scholars and practitioners with a working library of the key materials. This collection integrates documents of the International Maritime Organisation (which are not available anywhere on the web in consolidated form), of regional fisheries organizations, security related documents, treaties concerning resource exploitation, environmental protection measures and much more, into the framework created by the Law of the Sea Convention.

An Introduction to Land Law

Simon Gardner

'Well written and clear. A great introduction'
Mika Oldham, Jesus College, Cambridge

This new second edition covers the main points of land law found in the syllabuses of law schools in England and Wales. While it is not intended as a comprehensive textbook on the topic, it offers sufficient detail for anyone reading it to gain an overview of the subject, and for those seeking more the footnotes offer plenty of pointers. As one reader of the first edition commented, 'it shone light where none had shone before, and lit a clear path to understanding'.

Law and the Internet

Edited by Lilian Edwards and Charlotte Waelde

New Edition

This is the third edition of a successful book which offers students and practitioners an up-to-date overview of developments in Internet law and practice. This edition incorporates for the first time areas such as data protection, privacy and electronic surveillance, cyber crime and cyber security, jurisdiction and dispute resolution online. The section on IP contains clear and comprehensive analysis of the many and varied ways in which IP and the internet intersect including open source licenses and the IP problems around search engines. The new edition also takes account of all current cases and legislation, including the draft revised EC Telecoms Package and the Audio Visual Media Services Directive.

Contract Law

An Index and Digest of Published Writings

Adam Kramer

This is a new type of book. It provides an index of the most useful and important academic and other writings on contract law, whether published in articles or journal chapters, or as books. These writings, with their full citation, are gathered under familiar contract law subject-headings, and the most significant half of them are digested in a summary of a few lines each. This work should prove an invaluable resource for practitioners, academics and students, increasing awareness of important writings, and saving readers time by familiarising them with the work that has already been done in their particular fields.

International Journal of Law in Context Editor

Applications and nominations are invited for the position of Co-Editor of the International Journal of Law in Context to replace Professor Carrie Menkel-Meadow who will retire from the position shortly. The Co-Editor will work alongside current Co-Editor Professor Michael Freeman, University College London, UK.

IJLC is a peer-reviewed journal published by Cambridge University Press. It publishes contextual work about law and its relationship with other disciplines including science, literature, philosophy, sociology, psychology, ethics, history and geography. The journal is still in the early phase of its life with Volume 5 publishing this year. This gives the new Co-Editor a unique opportunity to influence the journal's development, increase its international profile and help shape its future.

The appointee will be a leading law and society scholar with an entrepreneurial approach to growing scholarly interest in the journal with the networks necessary to make this happen. They will have particular responsibility for increasing the journal's reach in North America. Duties include commissioning, supervising the peer review process and compilation and proofing of each issue. The appointee is expected to attend appropriate conferences including the annual LSA event in order to promote the journal and pro-actively solicit contributions.

Initial appointment will be for three years, with a starting date to be fixed by mutual agreement. A modest honorarium is attached.

Expressions of interest by December 24, 2009.
