Consuls of the Later Roman Empire

Roger Bagnall, Alan Cameron, Seth R. Schwartz, and Klaas A. Worp

The office of the consuls, once the supreme magistrates of the Roman Republic, became a powerless but prestigious honor by the later Roman Empire. Their greatest importance to us, however, is as a means of naming years. Consuls of the Later Roman Empire is the first modern work to collect the full evidence for each year of this period (284-541): inscriptions, papyri, laws, church councils, literary sources, coins, ancient chronicles and lists, and other documents. Four indexes make this major reference work easy to use: Names of Consuls, Reverse Index of Names, Index of Subjects and Index of Texts Discussed. "A superlative achievement of precise and disciplined scholarship." -T.D. Barnes

The Magistrates of the Roman Republic, Volume III.
Supplement (1986)

T. Robert S. Broughton

Broughton's encyclopedic register of Republican office-holders from 509 to 31 B.C. has been the standard authority for over thirty years. This new volume of MRR supersedes the Supplement published in 1960 and triples its size, incorporating all facts bearing on the careers of Republican magistrates which scholarly research has brought to light between 1952 and 1986.

The core of the volume consists of the "Additions and Corrections," organized alphabetically by name. These are followed by a list of errata in volumes I and II, 45 pages of new bibliography, and a concordance which completes the cross references between names in the Index of Careers and prosopographical entries in the most recent volumes of the Realencyclopädie.

Lucian Opera: Tomus IV (Books LXIX–LXXXVI)

Edited by M. D. MacLeod

This volume completes the Oxford Classical Text of Lucian by adding eleven works of the Lucianic corpus proper, four other works wrongly attributed to Lucian in a few manuscripts, and those epigrams from the Anthologies which have any claim to be regarded as Lucianic.

Ethics and Human Action in Early Stoicism

Brad Inwood

This book presents a detailed reconstruction of the older Stoic theory of the psychology of action, which is discussed in relation to Aristotelian, Epicurean, Platonic, and some of the more influential modern theories.

Naming Achilles

David M. Shive

By a close analysis of the figure of Achilles as he is named in all the grammatical cases, the author disputes the argument of Milman Parry that there was great economy and minimal extension in the Homeric poems owing to the constraints of the oral tradition.

Roman Papers

Ronald Syme

These volumes contain papers composed between 1981 and 1985. Many of them deal with Pliny the Younger and Tacitus: also Strabo, Pliny the Elder, Statius, Quintilian, and Arrian. Several papers concern the Spanish provinces and the Greek east.

In Defence of Rhetoric

Brian Vickers

This book sets out to reinstate rhetoric. Beginning with an overview of the rhetorical system as developed in classical times, it surveys the major texts, from Aristotle to Tacitus describing their main emphases and commenting on their value to us today.

The Augustan Aristocracy

Ronald Syme

While the monarchy established by Augustus attracts assiduous study, not enough has been said about the old nobility renascent after years of civil war. Covering something like a century and a half in the history of Roman families, this book may be taken as a supplement no less than a sequel to 'The Roman Revolution' and 'Tacitus'.

1987. Large-octavo. XI, 330 pages. Cloth DM 154,-
ISBN 3 11 010704 X (Volume 25)

Interpretation of a number of dialogues with an ending which is either inconclusive or paradoxical. The question is addressed of the function of these texts in their historical context.

An historical approach demonstrates that the application of Plato's 'text critique' to his aporetic dialogues produces satisfying results.

Working from this basis, the author emphasises the 'hyponematic' character of the works under discussion.

... a powerful tool for classicists interested in text analysis and the production of word lists, indexes and concordances

Micro-OCP is the microcomputer version of the well-known mainframe text analysis package, the Oxford Concordance Program.

Micro-OCP generates word lists, indexes and concordances from texts in a variety of languages and alphabets. Texts for analysis can be prepared using most word-processing programs or may be entered on a mainframe and downloaded onto a PC.

Features of particular interest to classicists include:

- ▶ the facility to sort into Greek alphabetical order, allowing for accents and other diacritical marks
▶ the inclusion of two alphabets for transliterated Greek, including the Thesaurus Linguae Graecae scheme
▶ most major classical Latin authors are already available in machine-readable form

Micro-OCP runs on the IBM PC, XT, or AT microcomputers. For further information on hardware requirements return the coupon below.

UK Price: £250+VAT for an institution; £165+VAT for an individual working on his/her own PC

Export Price: $395 and $275, respectively

For further information on Micro-OCP, return this coupon to Anne Yates, Oxford Electronic Publishing, OUP, Walton Street, Oxford OX2 6DP.

For the first time in the English language, the biography of the Roman guerilla leader,

QUINTUS SERTORIUS

and the Legacy of Sulla

Classicist Philip Spann breaks new ground for English-language readers in this account of a military genius whose strategy and tactics are a virtual textbook for today's brushfire wars. For the scholar, Quintus Sertorius offers a fresh revelation of the confused loyalties that undermined a major experiment in representative government.

Key sections of text from Plato's "Symposion" and "Phaidros" allude to "Mysteries", and it is shown that they are determined to a surprising degree by the structures and motifs of ancient secret cults.
Philological analysis reveals Plato as the source for much of the rich Judaic-Christian mystery terminology later found in the works of Philon and Clemens. It is less dependent on pagan cults than was previously assumed, and even Clemens' remarkable mystery chapter proves to have literary origins as an excerpt from a heathen work.

Horace's Poetic Journey

A Reading of Odes 1–3

David H. Porter

"This is a bold and exacting piece of literary criticism that will offer a fresh measure by which to approach one of the great lyricists. Furthermore, it is one of the most convincing arguments for an ancient poet's arrangement of his own poetry into books and groups of books that I have seen. Porter suggests a new emphasis on the poet himself and his direct concerns in a poetry that has been beset with the persona-poet ambiguity."

The Creation of the Roman Frontier

Stephen L. Dyson

"Professor Dyson provides a solid study of an important topic. Unlike many other authors who write about the Roman frontier, he [Dyson] does not seek to give only a chronological and physical description of the Roman frontier in the west. Rather he challenges the reader to see the Romans as they dealt with the various peoples on their borders."

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. One copy of an article will suffice. It will usually be returned if the contributor so requests on submitting it, but as the editors may wish to annotate it and furthermore cannot take responsibility for any loss, contributors should retain another copy.

2. Articles should be typed in double spacing on A4 paper and on one side of the paper only. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and typed on separate sheets. Greek quotations need not be typed, but every letter must be clear and legible; especial care should be taken over accents and breathings.

3. Quotations in English, Latin, French, etc., should be put in single inverted commas, e.g.

... the phrase 'dux femina facti' has...

A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Single words or self-contained phrases (such as fait accompli) may be underlined to indicate italics. Material inserted within a quotation is placed in square brackets:

'[The translator]... must ever be casting his eyes upwards from the copy to the original.'

4. References should normally be given in the footnotes, in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (Oxford, 1939), pp. 78–9 or op. cit., pp. 78–9.

E. Norden, *Die antike Kunstprosa*⁵ i. 164–81 or op. cit. i. 164–81.

F. Jacoby, FGrHist 328 F 4.

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations should not be assigned to books unless they are generally familiar (e.g. *OCD*² omitting full points).

ARTICLES

R. P. Winnington-Ingram, 'The Danaid Trilogy', JHS 81 (1961), 141–52

or R. P. Winnington-Ingram, JHS 81 (1961), 141–52.

Both year and volume number should be given.

Abbreviations may follow the style of Marouzeau's L'Année philologique.

ANCIENT AUTHORITIES

Aristophanes, Birds 135; Homer, Od. 1.1 (not a 1); Cic. Phil. 2.20 (not 2.8 or 2.8.20); Plin. N.H. 9.176 (not 9.83.176 or 9.83); Quint. 10.1.46; Soph. O.C. 225 (retain full points; do not use l. or ll., but, where necessary, line or lines). B.C. should appear after, A.D. before, the number of the year. The following should not be italicized: op. cit., loc. cit., cf., ibid., s.v.

The Classical Association

The main aims of the Classical Association are to promote and sustain interest in classical studies, to maintain their rightful position in universities and schools, and to give scholars and teachers opportunities of meeting and discussing their problems. It organizes an annual conference, lasting four or five days, in a university centre, and sponsors twenty-nine branches, most of which hold Greek and Latin Reading Competitions for Schools. Its activities are fully reported in its annual Proceedings, issued free to all members.

The present membership of the Association is approximately 4,400. Membership is open both to individuals and to institutions at an annual subscription of £3.00 (life composition for individual members, £63.00). Members may obtain the Classical Review and Classical Quarterly at reduced prices (Review, £13.00; Quarterly, £14.00; combined subscription, £24.00). Greece & Rome may also be obtained through the Association for an annual subscription of £11.00. Application for membership and subscriptions for the journals (which should normally be received by 31 January in each year) should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurer, R. Wallace, B.A., M.A., Department of Classics, University of Keele, Keele, Staffs. ST5 5B9.

The Association can also supply copies of the Index to the First Series of the Classical Review (price £1.50 for members, £1.75 for non-members, post free) and of the last issues of The Year's Work in Classical Studies, covering the years 1945–7 (price £1.00 each volume, post free). These publications and details of the various occasional publications of the Association are obtainable from the Hon. Treasurer. Inquiries should be sent to either of the Hon. Secretaries (Prof. J. Percival, Department of Classics, University College Cardiff, Cardiff CF1 1XA and Miss H. M. Jones, 18 Valley Close, Pinner, Middlesex).
