

People in Political Science

Activities

Charles O. Jones, Hawkins Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin–Madison, has been named a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar for 1996–97. The Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar Program contributes to the intellectual life of the campus by making possible an exchange of ideas between the Visiting Scholars and the resident faculty and students. As a Visiting Scholar, Jones will travel to nine institutions where he will meet with students and faculty members in a variety of formal and informal sessions, including classroom discussions, seminars, and public lectures.

Barbara Kellerman has been named Fulbright Chair in American Studies at Uppsala University in Sweden. Her appointment is for the 1996–97 academic year, and she is based at the Swedish Institute for North American Studies. Kellerman has also taken a position as Senior Fellow at the Center for Political Leadership, University of Maryland.

David Pfeiffer, professor, department of public management, Frank Sawyer School of Management, Suffolk University, was chosen by the board of the Society for Disability Studies for a three year term as editor of Disability Studies Quarterly.

John W. Cavanaugh

Myron Weiner, professor, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been appointed chair of the External Advisory Committee of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to assist in the development of a research and policy making program and the publication of the bi-annual State of the World's Refugees.

Stephen Zunes, assistant professor of politics, University of San Francisco, delivered a lecture on the “Western Sahara” at the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco in September 1996.

Administrative Appointments

J. Theodore Anagnoson, acting director, Division of Health Financing Policy, Office of Health Policy, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, DC.

Lisa Anderson, dean, School of International and Public Affairs, Columbia University.

Michael Barnett, chair, international relations program, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Mark Beissinger, chair, Russian and East European studies program, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

John W. Cavanaugh, academic director, South Carolina Semester (state government internship) Program, and, educational advisor, Leadership South Carolina, Institute of Public Affairs, University of South Carolina.

Eric S. Einhorn, chair and professor of political science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Lisa Anderson

Robert Elias, chair, department of politics, University of San Francisco.

Gordon P. Henderson, associate dean, social science division, College of Arts and Sciences, Widener University; formerly director, Master of Public Administration Program.

Don Kettl, director, Robert M. La Follette Institute of Public Affairs, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Herbert M. Kritzer, chair, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Mark Landis, chair, department of political science, Hofstra University.

Timothy J. Lomperis, professor and chair, department of political science, Saint Louis University; formerly associate professor, U.S. Military Academy, West Point.

Kenneth R. Mayer, director, Data and Computation Center, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Diana C. Mutz, associate chair and director of graduate studies, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Barbara J. Nelson, dean, School of Public Policy and Social Research,

People in Political Science

University of California at Los Angeles.

Steven Rosenstone, dean, College of Liberal Arts and professor of political science, University of Minnesota.

Frank C. Zagare, chair, political science department, SUNY–Buffalo.

New Appointments

Scott Althaus, assistant professor, department of speech communication and department of political science, University of Illinois at Urbana–Champaign.

Meenekshi Bose, assistant professor of political science, Hofstra University.

Paul Brace, Clarence L. Carter Professor of Political Science, Rice University.

Eileen Doherty, assistant professor of political science, Case Western Reserve University; formerly Berkeley Roundtable on the International Economy (B.R.I.E.).

Leela Fernandes, assistant professor, department of political science and women's studies department, Rutgers University–New Brunswick.

Nathalie J. Frensley, assistant professor of political science, Wichita State University; formerly University of Texas–Austin.

John Martin Gillroy, John D. MacArthur Professor of Environmental Studies, Environmental Policy and Law, Bucknell University; formerly University of Hartford and Trinity College.

Mary A. Hague, assistant professor of political science, Juniata College.

Kerry Haynie, assistant professor, political science department, Rutgers University–New Brunswick.

Patty Hipsher, assistant professor of political science, Oklahoma State University; formerly Quinnipiac College.

Laura Jensen, assistant professor of political science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Ethan Kapstein, Harold Stassen Chair in International Peace and professor of political science, Hubert H. Humphrey Institute, University of Minnesota.

Timothy V. Kaufman-Osborn, Baker Ferguson Chair in Politics and Leadership, department of politics, Whitman College.

Jason F. Kirksey, Hannah D. Atkins Assistant Professor of Political Science, Oklahoma State University; formerly University of New Orleans.

Andrew H. Kydd, assistant professor, department of political science, University of California–Riverside; formerly visiting lecturer, University of California–Los Angeles.

Lance T. LeLoup, professor and chair, Criminal Justice Program, Washington State University.

Patrick Murphy, assistant professor of politics, University of San Francisco.

Emil Nagengast, assistant professor of political science, Juniata College.

Michael Paris, assistant professor, political science department, Rutgers University–New Brunswick.

Steven D. Roper, assistant professor, department of social sciences, Pace University; formerly University of Missouri–Columbia.

David Rousseau, assistant professor, political science department, SUNY–Buffalo.

Gregory D. Russell, associate professor and director, Criminal Justice

Program, Washington State University.

Daniel Tichenor, assistant professor, department of political science, Rutgers University–New Brunswick.

Robert P. Watson, assistant professor of political science, University of Hawai'i at Hilo; formerly Northern Arizona University.

Edward P. Weber, assistant professor, Criminal Justice Program, Washington State University.

Thomas R. Wolanin, senior associate, Institute for Higher Education Policy and visiting professor of education policy and political science, George Washington University; formerly Deputy Assistant Secretary for Legislation and Congressional Affairs, U.S. Department of Education.

Promotions

Jill Crystal, associate professor, department of political science, Auburn University.

Mark N. Franklin, John and Rebecca Moores Scholar, University of Houston.

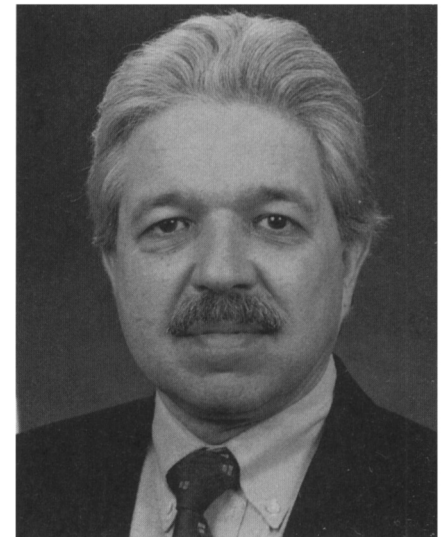

Anthony Gadzey, associate professor, department of political science, Auburn University.

Mark J. Gobeyn, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Bradley University.

Anne Khademian, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Barbara J. Nelson

Thomas R. Wolanin

Kenneth R. Mayer, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Wynne W. Moskop, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Saint Louis University.

Louis W. Pauly, professor, department of political science, University of Toronto.

Steven Puro, professor, department of political science, Saint Louis University.

Christa Slaton, associate professor, department of political science, Auburn University.

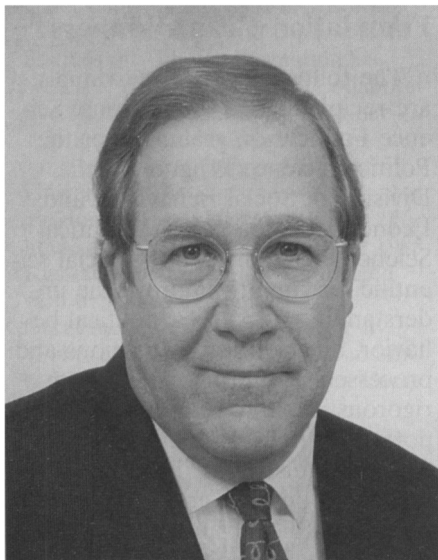

Janice Stein, University Professor, department of political science, University of Toronto.

Floyd Stoner, deputy executive director for government affairs, American Bankers Association.

Emmanuel N. Uwalaka, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Saint Louis University.

Howard J. Wiarda, Leonard J. Horwitz Professor of Latin American Politics and Studies, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Fang Zhu, assistant professor of political science, Oklahoma State University, formerly Columbia University.

Floyd Stoner

Gary Zuk, professor, department of political science, Auburn University.

Retirements

Charles W. Anderson, professor emeritus of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Melvin Croan, professor emeritus of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

David N. Farnsworth, professor of political science, Wichita State University.

Donald M. Freeman, Igleheart Professor of Political Science, department of political science, University of Evansville.

Joel B. Grossman, professor emeritus of political science, University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Visiting and Temporary Positions

Gayle R. Avant, associate professor of political science at Baylor University is on a faculty exchange serving as Senior Lecturer in Politics at the University of Ballarat, Australia.

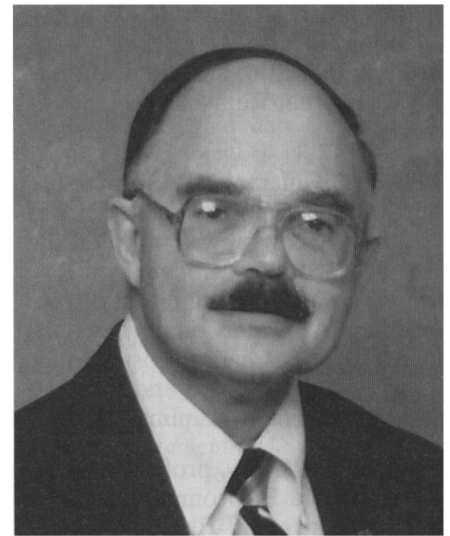

Glen Browder, has been named Distinguished Visiting Professor for National Security Affairs, Naval Post-Graduate School.

Bertil L. Hanson, professor emeritus of political science, Oklahoma State University, will be visiting professor, Trinity College of Dublin, Ireland, 1996–97.

Orin Kirshner, lecturer, University of Minnesota.

Richard Sobel, will serve as a visiting fellow, Joan Shorenstein Barone Center, Harvard University, 1996–97. Sobel dedicated the Fall semester to examining how the media portrayed support for U.S. intervention in Bosnia. The rest of the year will be dedicated to work on a new book, Public Opinion in American Foreign Policy: From Vietnam to the Nineties.

Brian Weiner, visiting assistant professor, University of San Francisco.

Gayle R. Avant

Awards

NASPAA and Pi Alpha Alpha Award Recipients Honored

Walter Broadnax, professor, School of Public Affairs and director, Bureau of Government Research, University of Maryland–College Park, was awarded the Alfred M. Zuck Public Courage Award in recognition of a graduate of a National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration program who has made contributions in public service at the cost of significant risk to personal advancement.

Donald E. Stokes, professor, Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University, was awarded the Elmer B. Staats Public Service Career Award in recognition of a faculty member who has inspired students to pursue a career in public service.

Ralph S. Brower, Graduate School of Public Affairs, SUNY–Albany, was awarded the NASPAA Annual Dissertation Award in recognition of significant research that has been done in the field of public administration and public affairs for his dissertation, “Everyday Forms of Bureaucratic Resistance: An Ethnographic Investigation.” James R. Thompson, Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse