Theatre Research International

Special Issue on Anthropology and Theatre

Under the editorship of H el ene Bouvier we are preparing a special issue on Anthropological Studies of Theatre.

Aims, approaches, perspectives

Authors may choose any topic that uses anthropology for an understanding of the place of theatre in sociological and cultural processes. Their articles may reflect any theoretical approaches as well as any sub-discipline of anthropology.

Monographic or comparative studies based on field research and participatory observation are especially welcome.

Contributions discussing questions of methodology or theory based on ethnological data are also invited.

Please send a short r esum e of your proposed topic to:

H el ene Bouvier
155, rue de Paris
F 95150 TAVERNY
France

The deadline for the completed articles will be 1 December 1992.

MODERN DRAMA AND THE RHETORIC OF THEATER

W. B. WORTHEN

The history of drama is typically viewed as a series of inert "styles." Tracing British and American stage drama from the 1880s onward, W. B. Worthen instead sees drama as the interplay of text, stage production, and audience.

"Strikingly original. . . . The first study of modern drama that takes the implicit or explicit presence of the audience into constant consideration."—Simon Williams, author of Shakespeare and the German Stage

TDR

The Drama Review

Richard Schechner, Editor

TDR provides a forum for writing about performances and their social, economic, and political contexts. Each fully illustrated issue covers dance, theatre, performance art, popular entertainments, media, sports, rituals, and performance in politics and everyday life. Long known as the basic resource for keeping up with and

Theatre

studying contemporary theatre, TDR continues to present and debate important performances from every medium, setting, and culture. If you teach theatre, dance or performance of any kind, if you are interested in what's happening now – and tomorrow – you need to read TDR.

THEATRE RESEARCH / RECHERCHES THEATRALES

The International Federation published the journal Theatre Research/Recherches Théâtrales from 1959 to 1975 when it was succeeded by Theatre Research International. During these years many important articles of original research were published covering the whole field of theatre history from the earliest times, and particularly Shakespeare and the Elizabethan period, to more recent figures such as Strindberg, Craig and Beckett. There have been special issues on the themes of Opera, the Playwright as Director, and Reinhardt; a check-list of world theatre on records; and reports on International Conferences and Symposia of the I.F.T.R.

In all 14 volumes were published in 36 issues including a complete index. Most back issues are still available.

University and institutional libraries, and especially those who have subscribed to the new journal Theatre Research International, are recommended to take this opportunity of completing their holding of the earlier issues of this publication, while copies last.

Price: per issue £4 ($6); per volume £8 ($12) plus postage

A few complete runs of the 14 volumes (with two issues in facsimile) are available at £70($100). Postage extra.
