Child Welfare: Reception Centres, Regionalisation and Deinstitutionalization 3

LEN TIERNEY and MERYL MCDOWELL

The authors report in this article on some very practical research and analysis of long stay and short stay children in the child welfare reception system. Some policy and practice revision is indicated as the State moves further into deinstitutionalization and regionalization of the reception service.

The Nature of Children's Conflict Resolution Styles 10

PHILLIP SLEE

The author reports on a South Australian study involving 1,110 year 1 to year 8 school children. It tackles the important issue of the management of conflict in everyday life. In the context of social and emotional maturation and development it raises some interesting differences and issues around strategies of conflict resolution.

Victoria's Protective Services and the Interim Fogarty Report: Is this the Right Road at last? 12

CHRIS GODDARD

As part of a high level of public and official scrutiny of the state's child protection services, Justice Fogarty provided an interim report to the Victorian Government in January 1989. In this article the author discusses the report and its implications.

Inter Country Adoption: The Context of Recent Developments and the Need for Research 16

BRIAN ENGLISH

In this article Brian English reports on some prospective research about intercountry adoption in New South Wales. At the same time he has given a very rich account of the historical and demographic context of adoption in general and intercountry adoption in particular.

CHILDREN AUSTRALIA is the quarterly journal of
The National Children's Bureau of Australia Inc.

The Bureau and its publications committee seek to provide in the journal an opportunity for providers to report on their work. It is also a forum where those concerned with the welfare of families and children might share their viewpoints with others. The views expressed therefore are not necessarily the views of the Bureau, the publications committee or the editor.

Citation of material should carry the name and issue of the journal. Permission to reproduce articles should be sought from the author.
