Ideology & Popular Protest

GEORGE RUDÉ

With a New Foreword
& an Updated Bibliography
by Harvey J. Kaye

Originally published in 1980, George Rudé's pathbreaking work is devoted to the comparative study of popular political ideas, and reveals the role ideology played in a wide range of rebellions in Europe and the Americas from the Middle Ages to the early twentieth century.

THE BEST IN BRITISH STUDIES

The Legal Status of British Dependent Territories

The West Indies and North Atlantic Region

Elizabeth W. Davies

Only six British dependent territories now remain in the West Indies and North Atlantic region. This book examines their legal, constitutional and practical relationships with the British government set against the territories' socio-economic, geographic and historic backgrounds. A series of contemporary case studies illustrates the practical consequences of continued dependent territory status.

The Business Community of Seventeenth-Century England

Richard Grassby

This uniquely comprehensive study explores all aspects of the English business community as it developed between 1590 and 1720. Drawing largely on material in private papers, Grassby describes and explains the structure of business in a pre-industrial economy and examines the way in which social values, demographic factors, the family, state and religion distributed talent, trained and motivated businessmen and determined their life style.

Archbishop Theodore

Commemorative Studies
on his Life and Influence

Michael Lapidge, Editor

In this book, which builds on the 1994 publication of previously unprinted biblical commentaries from Theodore's Canterbury school, internationally distinguished scholars provide a fresh account of the career and writings of a unique personality who brought to Anglo-Saxon England the cultural heritage of Syria, Byzantium and Rome.

Citizens of the World

London Merchants and the Integration of the British Atlantic Community, 1735-1785

David Hancock

This book examines the business and social strategies of the men who developed the British empire in the eighteenth century. It focuses on 23 London merchants who traded with America in an age of imperial expansion. These "associates" started their careers as marginal people, sought and took advantage of opportunities around the world, and approached their business and social lives with the improving ideals of the practical Enlightenment.

Australia, Britain and Migration

A Study of Desperate Hopes, 1915-1940

Michael Roe

This book is the first systematic study of assisted emigration from Britain to Australia during the inter-war years. It looks at the British and Australian politicians and bureaucrats involved in the program and the half-million migrants who uprooted themselves. Not only is the book an important study of imperial relations in the 1920s and 1930s, it describes an important and overlooked aspect of Australian political and social history.

Changing Values in Medieval Scotland

A Study of Prices, Money, and Weights and Measures

Elizabeth Gemmill and Nicholas Mayhew

This is a full-scale study of prices in medieval Scotland, c.1260-1542, which includes detailed discussions of coinage, and weights and measures. Nearly 6000 prices are listed individually, average prices are calculated for each commodity, and for groups of commodities such as cereals and livestock. Scots prices are compared with English, and the significance of the data for the economic history of medieval Scotland is analyzed fully.

Royal Historical Society Publications

Cambridge University Press is pleased to announce that from 1995 it is publishing the serial publications of the Royal Historical Society. Individual publications, and backlist titles from 1990, are available for purchase from Cambridge as books.

Household Accounts and Disbursement Books of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, 1558-61, 1584-86

Simon Adams, Editor

This book is a scholarly edition of the Earl of Leicester's two surviving household accounts (from 1558 to 1561) and the fragments of his disbursement books (from 1584 to 1586). It also contains an appendix of surviving lists of household accounts in the British Isles. This is the only collection of such information in print for such a prominent and notorious courtier and, as such, provides a valuable insight into the personal finances of members of the Elizabethan court.

The Derby Diaries, 1869-1878

A Selection from the Dairies of Edward Henry Stanley, 15th Earl of Derby, Between September 1869 and March 1878

J. Vincent, Editor

This book contains a selection from the diaries of Edward Henry Stanley, 15th Earl of Derby, from the years between September 1869 and March 1878. The diaries are a rich source for the politics of the 1870s covering much of the period of opposition to Gladstone's First Ministry and Derby's pivotal role in Disraeli's Second Ministry. This is also a central text for understanding Disraeli's personality and the Eastern Question.

Fictional Death and the Modernist Enterprise

Alan Warren Friedman

This book traces the semiotics of death and dying in twentieth-century fiction, history, and culture. It describes how modernist writers either elided rituals of dying, or, rediscovering the body, transformed Victorian "aesthetic death" into modern "dirty death." And it shows how, through postmodern fiction and AIDS narratives, death has once again become cultural currency.
