AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The views expressed in the articles, editorial comments, book reviews, and all other contributions to the AJIL are those of the individual authors and are not to be taken as representing the views of the Board of Editors or the American Society of International Law.

SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The American Journal of International Law (AJIL) invites submission of manuscripts on international law subjects. The Journal's coverage extends beyond public international law to closely related issues of global governance, transnational law, and national or sub-state law. It generally does not publish manuscripts focused on purely private or commercial law or on comparative or foreign law, including the internal law of the European Union. The Journal will not consider submissions whose content has been, or will be, published before it appears in this journal.

The Journal typically receives over 400 submissions each year for lead articles, current developments, or notes and comments from scholars and practitioners around the world. All such submissions are considered by the co-editors in chief as soon as feasible upon receipt, with expedited attention paid to exclusive submissions and to manuscripts, including candidates for notes, comments and current developments, that are less than 11,000 words. Submissions that are candidates for lead articles must receive, in addition to the approval of the co-editors in chief, the approval of two members of the Board of Editors in order to receive an offer of publication. (Where a submission presents a conflict of interest for the co-editors in chief, as with respect to submissions written by full-time members of the law faculty of New York University, the manuscript is handled by other members of the Board of Editors. Where only one of the two co-editors in chief has such a conflict of interest, the manuscript is handled by the other.) The process for peer review may involve members of the Board and outside scholars consulted for this purpose. This process ordinarily is double blind (meaning that the identity of the authors is unknown to the peer reviewers and vice versa). On occasion, this peer review process generates requests by the co-editors in chief for revision and resubmission. If ultimately rejected, manuscripts ordinarily are not resubmitted to the Journal.

Exclusive Submissions:

The Journal does not require exclusive submissions. Priority consideration will, however, be accorded where the author states that the submission is exclusive for a specified period of at least six weeks and commits to accept an offer of publication within the specified time period. Authors should bear in mind that, as a professionally juried journal, the Journal is rarely if ever able to make offers of publication in response to requests for expedited review within the time limits typically fixed by other journals that have made offers of publication.

Format and Style Guidelines:

All manuscripts should be double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman type; these formatting requirements apply to all text, quotations, and footnotes. The maximum length for lead articles is 30,000 words (including footnotes which should be complete and generally in conformity with The Chicago Manual of Style (16th ed. 2010), The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (20th ed., 2015) as well as the AJIL Style Guide.

Shorter pieces with less discursive footnotes, including submissions for lead articles, are strongly encouraged and may receive more expedited review. The maximum length for "Current Developments" and "Notes and Comments" submissions is 11,000 words. All manuscripts should be accompanied by the author's CV (in a separate document and including a list of publications) as well as a short abstract of no more than 150 words.

Given the volume of submissions to the Journal, authors are strongly urged to strictly adhere to these guidelines; manuscripts that exceed the word limits indicated, are not generally in conformity with The Chicago Manual of Style, or whose footnotes are not in accord with The Bluebook, (see above) may be rejected for these reasons alone.

Submissions should be in electronic form and should be transmitted as attachments to e-mail messages addressed to ajil@asil.org. For the Journal's complete submissions guidelines information, please visit <http://www.asil.org/ajil-submissions>.

The Journal currently uses Word 2010/2007 but can convert manuscripts created in other word processing programs. (In such cases, please specify the program used. Documents must be in easily edited formats.) Please do not send manuscripts in PDF format.

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as you know it.

To outdated ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we know it, from a global perspective.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or a health crisis in one country and a patent holder on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA LAW SCHOOL through unique collaborations with governments, the U.N., regulatory agencies, and NGOs. On campus, you'll experience unparalleled programs in the future of warfare, global financial regulation and corporate law, and legal studies across Asia. Elsewhere, you'll find partnerships with a worldwide network of leading academic institutions and Columbia Global Centers.

And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering legal scholarship building global paths toward freedom, peace, prosperity, and better governance.

Hart Publishing Titles

Theory of International Law

Robert Kolb

This book seeks to analyse various aspects of international law, the link being how they structure and marshal the different forces in the international legal order. It takes the following approaches to the matter. First, an attempt is made to determine the fundamental characteristics of international law, the forces that delineate and permeate its applications. Secondly, the multiple relations between law and policy are analysed. Politics are a highly relevant factor in the implementation of every legal order (and also a threat to it); this is all the more true in international law, where the two forces, law and politics, have significant links. Thirdly, the discussion focuses on a series of fundamental socio-legal notions: the common good, justice, legal security, reciprocity (plus equality and proportionality), liberty, ethics and social morality, and reason.

Interpretation of International Investment Treaties

Tarcisio Gazzini

This book offers a systematic study of the interpretation of investment-related treaties – primarily bilateral investment treaties, the Energy Charter Treaty, Chapter XI NAFTA as well as relevant parts of Free Trade Agreements. The importance of interpretation in international law cannot be overstated and, indeed, most treaty claims adjudicated before investment arbitral tribunals have raised and continue to raise crucial and often complex issues of interpretation. The interpretation of investment treaties is governed by the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties (VCLT). The disputes relating to these treaties, however, are rather peculiar as they place multinational companies (or natural person) in opposition to sovereign governments.

Human Security and Human Rights under International Law

The Protections Offered to Persons Confronting Structural Vulnerability

Dorothy Estrada-Tanck

Human security provides one of the most important protections; a person-centred axis of freedom from fear, from want and to live with dignity. It is surprising given its centrality to the human experience, that its connection with human rights has not yet been explored in a truly systematic way. This important new book addresses that gap in the literature by analysing whether human security might provide the tools for an expansive and integrated interpretation of international human rights. The examination takes a two-part approach. Firstly, it evaluates convergences between human security and all human rights – civil, political, economic, social and cultural – and constructs an investigative framework focused on the human security-human rights synergy. It then goes on to explore its practical application in the thematic cores of violence against women and undocumented migrants in the law and case-law of UN, European, Inter-American and African human rights bodies.

Complicity in International Criminal Law

Marina Aksenova

This book tackles one of the most contentious aspects of international criminal law – the modes of liability. At the heart of the discussion is the quest for balance between the accused's individual contribution and the collective nature of mass offending. The principle of legality demands that there exists a well-defined link between the crime and the person charged with it. This is so even in the context of international offending, which often implies 'several degrees of separation' between the direct perpetrator and the person who authorises the atrocity. The challenge is to construct that link without jeopardising the interests of justice.

Interactions between Regional and Universal Organizations

A Legal Perspective

Laurence Boisson de Chazournes

Cooperation through international organizations is fundamental to the international legal order. International organizations are nowadays ubiquitous and come in many different manifestations, each allowing for different levels of international cooperation. The profile of regional and universal organizations may vary greatly from one organization to another. At the same time, they do not live apart and this has led to the creation of a complex network of relationships. These relationships have seldom been the object of scholarship, and this book seeks to address that gap.

Oxford Reports on International Law in Domestic Courts

(ILDC) turns 10 this year. ILDC was created in 2006 and was the first module launched of the Oxford Reports on International Law (ORIL) service. By collecting together and analysing court decisions on key issues of international law, it has revolutionised research on the interpretation and application of international law at the national level. ILDC now features over 100 judgments from nearly 100 countries. Under the editorship of André Nollkaemper and August Reinisch, as well as former editor Erika de Wet, a global network of reporters selects cases from their local jurisdictions, puts the decisions into context, and explains their impact. Over the past decade, ILDC has shown how international law works in practice and opened up new, exciting avenues of research.

ILDC Statistics

1,683 case reports

94 countries

ORIL has gone on to set new standards for currency and coverage of public international case law, reporting on international courts, domestic courts and ad hoc tribunals. Case reports contain the full text of each decision, headnote, as well as analytical commentary and English translations of a number of key non-English decisions. ORIL is now rightly regarded as a must-have resource for the international law researcher.

Geneva: study in the heart of Europe in a truly international environment

"The University of Geneva offers various international law courses at the postgraduate level in French and in English. In English it offers in addition several summer schools, a Certificate in Transnational Law (CTL) as well as four Masters in advanced studies (MAS) and one Executive Master. Students and professionals from around the world come to study in Geneva, the home of numerous international organizations, UN agencies, the ICRC and law firms active in international arbitration.

The CTL provides students with a chance to specialize, early in their career, in international legal affairs within one or two semesters. Students can tailor their studies according to their particular interests, be it public or private international law.

A new Geneva Master in European and International Governance (MEIG) offers a unique interdisciplinary learning experience combining European and international affairs, including possibilities for internship in the UN system.

The Geneva Academy of international Humanitarian Law and Human Rights, a joint venture of the Law School and the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, offers a new MAS on Transitional Justice, Human Rights and the Rule of Law. International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights are taught in a MAS and an Executive Master offered by the Academy, covering in depth all areas of international law relating to armed conflicts.

The Geneva Master in International Dispute Settlement, which is equally offered jointly with the Graduate Institute gives students the opportunity to study all aspects of dispute settlement in the international arena, across the divide of public and private."
