Diploma in Family Therapy

Applications are invited for this course aimed at training practitioners to work with families in a multi-cultural society. The one year course consists of 1½ days per week formal tuition which includes theory and reading seminars, live supervision of family work, videotape supervision and skills training. It will be supplemented by clinical experience, which can be gained either in the Bloomsbury Health District or in approved placements. Teaching staff will be drawn from the Marlborough Family

Service and various departments in University College, London.

Applicants must have a relevant professional qualification and must have completed some recognised introductory work in family therapy. Further information and application forms from: Dr Alan Cooklin, Course Director or Miss Ann Miller, Course Organiser, Marlborough Family Service, 38 Marlborough Place, London NW8 0PJ (telephone 01 624 8605).
